McAnally challenges Lewkowicz

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally has heard enough from John Lewkowicz.

As a private citizen, Mayor McAnally is suing Lewkowicz, the city treasurer, asking through the courts that he prove and substantiate several outstanding accusations he has allegedly made throughout the community.

According to McAnally, Lewkowicz alleges the mayor misappropriated $2.4 million dollars.

"If he's going to make that kind of statement and those kind of accusations, he better prove it. If there was any money misappropriated, it happened in while he was treasurer in 1974 and 1975," she said.

The situation began, McAnally explained, back in the late '50s and early '60s when a water and sewer debt was financed through bonds levied on local property owners.

"The township board at the time overtaxed the residents when they levied 7 mills against the water and sewer debt when in reality only 3 mills was necessary. The amount collected was placed in the general fund and a huge surplus accumulated. In 1973, Mayor Troutt decided, on the advice of city council, that the money should be used for a public purpose."

"At that time, the millage rate was reduced to 1 1/2 mills each for water and sewer. John was in charge of the treasury and instead directed all 3 mills to water and nothing to the sewer debt. That year, the city built a huge surplus in water and a corresponding deficit in sewer. This was clearly an error in accounting," she said.

During the 1979 campaign, when she was treasurer, McAnally explained, the sewer deficit was made a major issue. Lewkowicz and another councilman took the issue to the state.

The attorney general allowed the transfer of water funds but refused to allow the city to levy sewer or water taxes for a period of years. These taxes were then to be paid out of general fund. So according to McAnally, Romulus residents have paid the water and sewer debt at least three different times.

"All I want him to do is run his department. But it's the public who is penalized. He's made a lot of accusations I can't let go unanswered. Let him prove it. He wastes everyone's time investigating old, long-settled matters. I'm tired of this buffoonery. I've been a victim too many times. This is outright character assassination," she concluded.

Hide and seek

Treasurer won't explain delinquent taxes

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus city coffers are short $22,000 according to Finance Department Co-Director Debra Hoffman and Treasurer John Lewkowicz won't respond to inquiries regarding the funds.

In the course of the annual audit, Hoffman discovered that city interest on delinquent taxes for the year 1985 was computed at a rate of 1 1/2 percent, she said.

"This rate is actually 3 percent less than the rate that is stipulated in Romulus City Charter. I have concluded that due to the error in the rate that the county was told to collect, the city has been shorted approximately $22,708 for the year 1985," Hoffman said in an interoffice memo Sept. 25.

Hoffman first brought this to the attention of the treasurer in a letter dated June 5. He has responded to neither, she claimed.

Lewkowicz stated it was the responsibility of the city assessor to compile both the tax roll and the delinquency tax roll. The assessor would also compute the tax rate, he said.

"According to city charter, the city assessor sets the tax rates. It is his responsibility and duty to see that the proper tax amounts and other charges are included on the tax rolls. He provides the information to the county," Lewkowicz said. He offered no further comment.

City Assessor Matt Raftary rebutted, "The general tax rolls are prepared based on my assessments. But it is Wayne County who prints the tax rolls under the direction of the city treasurer. He tells them the amounts of penalties and interest. City charter states the treasurer's job is to collect taxes. He's not doing his job and citizens are losing money. I'm tired of the treasurer blaming my office for his mistakes. This is not something new."

County officials notified the city last May about the money. "Of course, John refused to supply the necessary information to clear up the problem," Raftary said.

Wayne County Treasurer Ray Wojtowicz explained the city of Romulus uses the services of the county department of Equalization and Assessment to prepare tax rolls.

"It is the county's responsibility to collect delinquent taxes based on information supplied to us from the city. In this case, the assessment acts as an agent for the tax role preparation. The delinquent penalties vary in each community. The delinquent roll is usually prepared with information provided over the phone," he said.

The Equalization Department Director George McEachran affirmed it is the assessor's responsibility to prepare the tax roll but the treasurer's responsibility to collect the proper amount of taxes.

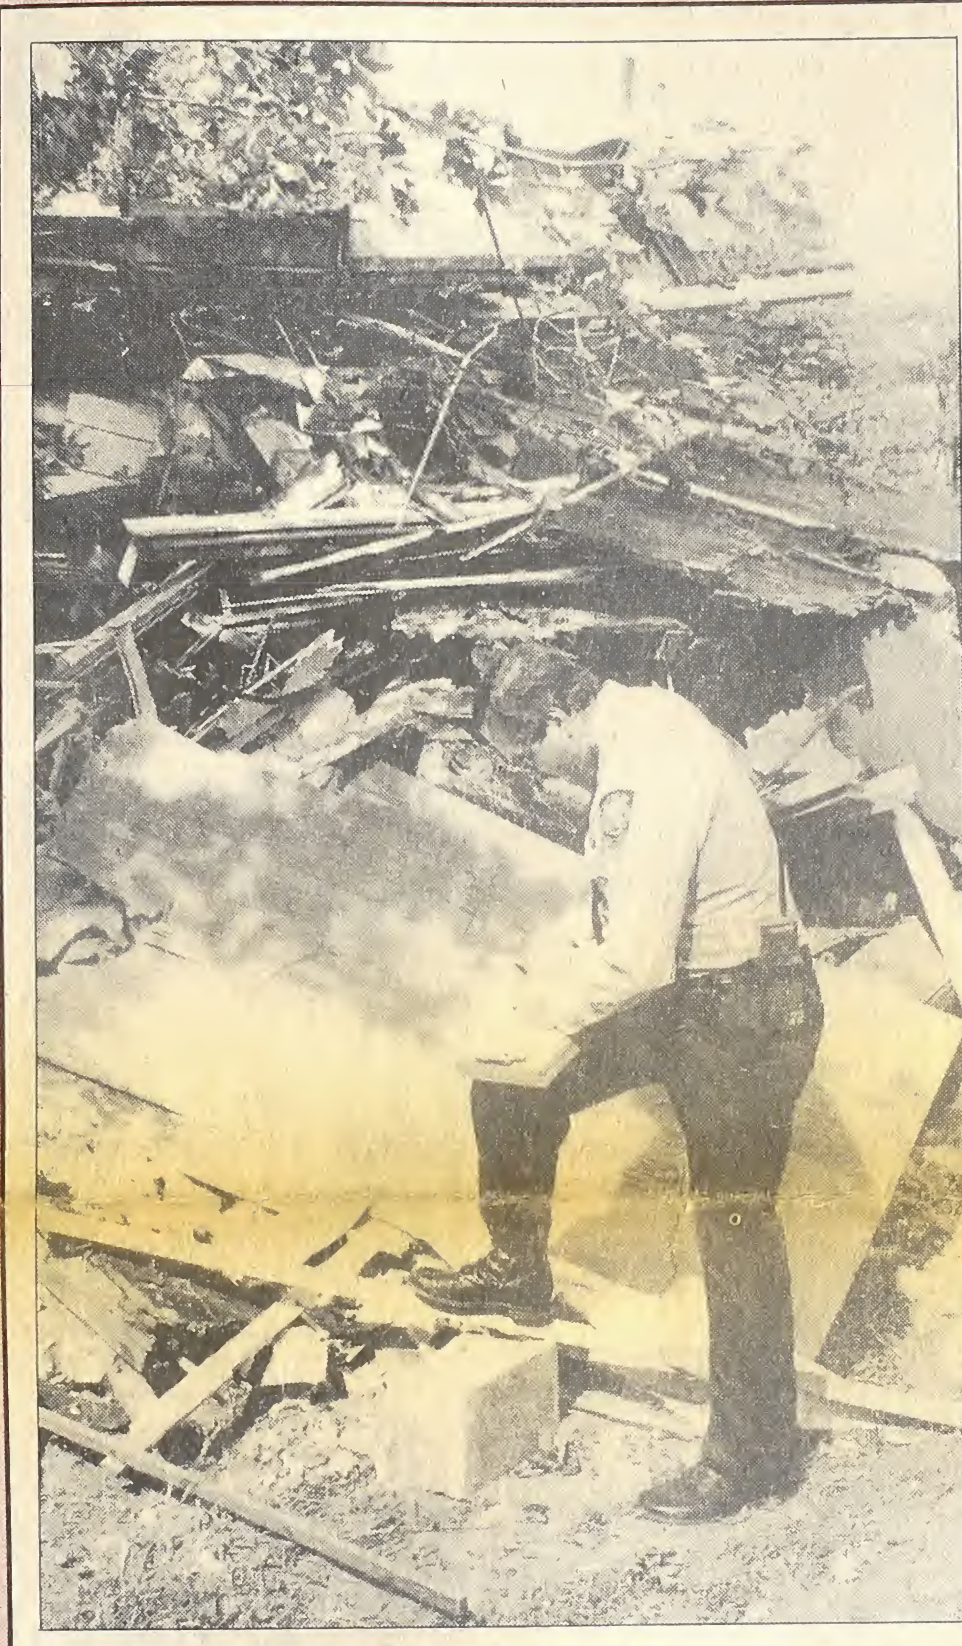

"How much to collect is usually an agreement between the local treasurer and the county. The correct penalties are listed on the back of the tax statement. It is the responsibility of the local treasurer to tell us what are the proper penalties and amounts that the county will collect," McEachran said.

Emil Tavonen of the State Treasury Department commented, "As I recall from 1985, the Romulus City Charter was not clear about whose responsibility it was to provide that tax information."

However, Mayor Beverly McAnally disagrees. "The charter is very clear. It is the responsibility of the treasurer to collect taxes. Either it is or it isn't. I don't have time to double check the operation of his department. But when the city creates and maintains a budget and I have to make a $30,000 adjustment, then I get concerned," she said.

Barden proposes sale of Romulus franchise

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The history of cable television in Romulus began with Barden Communications of Inkster, but it looks like it won't end there.

Cable company owner Don Barden made a surprise appearance before members of the city council Monday night to announce the sale of the Romulus Barden franchise to N-Com, part of Omnicom holding company based in Plymouth.

Earlier this year, and after many delays, Barden Cable completed the installation of cable lines which would allow 95 percent of all residents access to cable.

City council members were asked to review and approve an introduction amendment to the cable ordinance which would allow the transfer to N-Com. The transaction would be complete 90 days after the final approval by city council members.

"No changes are contemplated in the existing service," Barden reassured residents and council members.

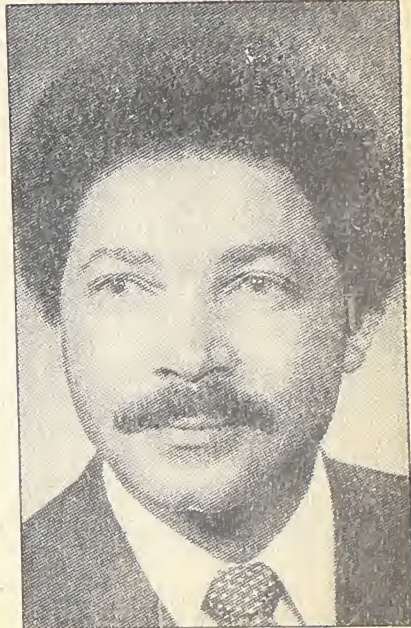

Barden originally scheduled a meeting with city council last week but did not appear. Councilman Barry Baumann noted, "We didn't conduct a meeting because nobody was here."

To which Barden replied, "I wasn't sure if I was supposed to be here or not and what the procedure for transfer was."

The 90-day limit, according to Baumann, was originally required to allow cities the opportunity to purchase the system if they so desired.

Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks said she didn't recall that the city was ever approached with the idea to purchase the company.

Mayor Beverly McAnally noted that as long as a company delivers dependable service, "I don't think ownership of the system is of great concern to the consumer. An attempt by the city to set up a system is beyond my capabilities but it might have made a lot of sense. But I know Barden is faced with time constraints to sell the system. However, we have done no research on the credibility of the buyer. And I don't know what the position of the cable commission is."

Barden said he would call a meeting with members of the cable commission for later this week.

"They have the knowledge of the language in these matters already. It is extremely important that this sale does not go into 1988. I'm not asking for a judgment tonight, just the introduction of the ordinance amendment which would allow the sale," Barden said.

City Attorney Barry Seifman responded, "In order to amend the ordinance, it has to be introduced at one meeting and voted on at the next."

Councilman Pete Bergeron questioned two specific promises made by Barden before he entered into the agreement with Romulus.

"We have some incomplete agreements with Barden. What about the funding of a part-time employee and the establishment of a $10,000 scholarship fund?"

Barden responded that under the new cable act, he is not required to do those things, but he would still honor them, "personally."

Barden is scheduled to appear at the next council meeting Monday night along with members of the cable commission.

Barden is also in the process of selling the Van Buren franchise, he said, although he has no plans to sell the Inkster cable operation while continuing to build and operate the Detroit franchise, the largest in the country.

Schools suffer with low 1987-88 enrollment

Enrollment in the Romulus School district is down by 102 students and officials are projecting additional teacher layoffs as a result.

Traditionally, all students in the school system are counted on the first Friday after the start of the new school year. The total at this time is unofficial and does not include students in the Adult Education or Enterprise High programs. That total is 5,004 students.

Last year, according to Dr. William Bedell, the number of students in those two programs totaled 186. Officials are hoping to offset some enrollment loss with an increase of 150 percent in the Enterprise program where 60 students have enrolled. "We're hoping for between 200 and 230 students in both programs. These programs should cut our losses," Bedell said.

The financial loss to the district would amount to about $360,000, or $3,600 per student. This amount is based on financial aid received from the state.

"We just won't be able to make budget cuts of that magnitude. We were counting on some money from the state to help with the school budget deficit and with teacher negotiations. We may have to reduce the teaching staff by two or three people. At semester break, we'll look hard and do some major rescheduling," Bedell said.

Romulus teachers are currently negotiating a new contract with the school district. No action is expected in the near future, according to Bedell.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Terrell LeCesne said these final count figures are "very unofficial." The actual final totals are due within 10 days.

local news in brief

Cheese distribution is set in Westland

WESTLAND — Surplus cheese, honey, flour and rice will be distributed to eligible Westland residents in mid-October.

Norwayne and Glenwood Gardens residents can obtain their food from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15 at the Dorsey Community Center, 32715 Dorsey Road, Westland. The remainder of Westland residents can pick up the cheese from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 16.

Seniors citizens living in the Westgate Towers, Greenwood Villa and Taylor Towers may call their building managers for their days of distribution.

For more information, call 595-0366.

Local man convicted in drug-selling scheme

INKSTER — A 53-year-old Inkster man was one of 33 people convicted last month in federal District Court in Detroit in connection with the organized and supervised distribution of controlled substances, according to a report from the U.S. Department of Justice.

Samuel London was convicted, along with George Ray of Detroit and Henry Chaney of Detroit, of organizing and supervising the means to issue and distribute false and forged medical prescriptions for controlled substances outside the usual course of medical practice for no legitimate purpose, the Justice Department report said.

The case involved a wide-ranging conspiracy beginning in January 1984 and extending to 1987. Purpose of the conspiracy, the Justice Department report said, was to possess and to distribute controlled substances.

Ray was sentenced to a 12-year prison sentences by federal District Court Judge Lawrence Zatkoff.

White House fellowships are available

INKSTER — U.S. Rep. Sander Levin (D-Southfield) is again sponsoring fellowship placement through the President's Commission on White House Fellowships. Each year the commission selects between 11 and 19 outstanding young Americans in the early stages of their careers to serve as special assistants to cabinet officers, the vice president or to members of the President's staff.

The program is open to all U.S. citizens with the exception of federal government employees. Leadership, intellectual and professional ability and commitment to public service are the broad criteria used in the selection process.

Application materials must be submitted no later than Dec. 1 for placement in the 1988-89 program. For more information, call (202) 395-4522.

only in romulus

AN INDONESIAN MISSIONARY, the Rev. Jeffrey Fussner will speak at 7 p.m. on Oct. 8, before the congregation of the Wesleyan Church at Five Points in Romulus. Rev. Fussner and his wife began their ministry in Magelang, Central Java in 1983 training future pastors and teachers. While the major emphasis in the overseas outreach program is Gospel evangelism, an extensive medical and educational program has been carried on by the denomination. For information call 941-1511 or 941-4167. Everyone is invited.

MICHAEL BERRY, THE senior partner of the law firm Berry, Hopson, Francis, Mack, Seifman and Plawecki, which represents the city of Romulus, was appointed by Justice Dorothy Comstock Riley of the Michigan Supreme Court to a new task force where racial and ethnic issues will be addressed. Chief Justice G. Mennen Williams will chair the task force. Also, city attorney, Barry Siefman, was appointed as a panel member to the grievance board of the state bar where attorneys can be either disbarred or reinstated.

A CIVILIAN CITATION was issued to Romulus resident, Kimberly Willard, 19, by Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano for her involvement after the "tragic crash of Northwest Flight 255 Aug. 16, at Detroit Metropolitan Airport." According to county spokesperson Nancy Mouradian, Willard lives off Middlebelt Road near the crash site. "She set up a small picnic table and provided coffee and cookies to nearby workers. She did this for several days and even brought her car closer by so people could use it to rest. She constantly replenished the refreshments. One evening she brought firewood and cooked hot dogs outside. Her actions were outstanding," said Mouradian.

A FAMILY DISPUTE in Romulus ended Friday night with one man seriously injured and another arrested and charged with assault to do great bodily harm less than murder. At 11:15 p.m. Friday, Romulus police officers were summoned to investigate a stabbing at a home on Arlene Court near Wayne and Ecorse roads. The victim, a 31-year-old resident, arrived at the residence and was confronted by a man at the home who attacked him, police said. Willie Kelly Jr., 41, of Romulus was arraigned on the charges in 34th District Court yesterday. The victim received multiple wounds during the scuffle. He was transported to Annapolis Hospital and later transferred to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor where he is listed in serious but stable condition.

A STRAY BULLET grazed a woman sitting in the living room of her Romulus home last Friday afternoon, according to police reports. A dispute began earlier in the day among two or three local youths and continued following school classes. One youth allegedly said he was "going to shoot up somebody's house," police said. He apparently had a handgun which discharged when somebody pushed him. The woman's injuries did not require medical treatment, police said. No arrests have been made.

A RESIDENT WAS attacked by a man suspected of breaking into his home in the area of Beverly and Merriman roads in Romulus last Friday afternoon. The resident was working in his garden about 2 p.m. when his dog started barking. The owner investigated and saw his back door open. He approached the house and saw a car in his driveway. In the house, he confronted the breaking and entering suspect. "They got into a knock-down, drag-out fight, and the resident got beaten pretty badly. He sustained various injuries and was taken to Annapolis Hospital for treatment. The resident lost money and valuables, and the two guys escaped. Both were strangers to him," said Lt. Ken Kraus of the Romulus Police Department. The incident is under investigation.

A VOLUNTEER SUPPORT group is being formed in Romulus to train prospective tutors. If you have the time and interest to tutor adults who are non-readers, call Eunice Johnson at Family and Neighborhood Services at 941-9590.

The court contest

The senior class selected these candidates for the 1987 Homecoming at Romulus High School. From top, left to right, are Msichana Higgins, Candice Silvey, Lisa Kosikowski, Anita Goree, Jennifer Beck, Lenny Barr, Alex Bossary, Brad Boyd, Derek Twitchel, Treg Gilstorf and Steve Hoinka. The morning of homecoming Oct. 16, the entire school will select the king and queen who will be presented to the school body during the spirit assembly. At 5 p.m., a parade will begin at city hall on Wayne Road and wind through downtown Ozga Road and north to the junior high school. At 7:30 p.m., the Romulus Eagles will challenge Garden City. Half time activities include the introduction of the court, the announcement of the spirit jug winners and the best float award.

Living in limbo
Neighborhood surrounded by uncertainty

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Ordinance Director Steve Banko issued 13 tickets to Wendall Flynn, owner and president of Airlines Parking, citing various violations at his business and in the adjacent neighborhood. Flynn is acquiring land in the Ecorse subdivision for future expansion of his present facility and new developments plans. City officials claim that Flynn has disregarded the proper procedures required by the municipality and failed to secure proper permits. On Monday, Banko cited Flynn for failing to obtain demolition permits for homes he has razed in the area and for unkempt premises. He was also cited for storage of inoperable vehicles at the Airlines Parking site. Flynn continues to purchase homes in the Ecorse subdivision and demolish them without the necessary permits, according to Banko. The debris from the buildings has not been cleared away within the time required by the city, according to Banko. The properties cited were on Hudson and Kenwood streets. "Within the last week, he demolished four houses and a permit was not obtained for any of them. The debris was left in a pile. One home remains unboarded. It's open and dangerous. He has taken no action to correct the problem and will be cited for these violations," said Banko who complained of a cramped hand after writing the numerous tickets. During the past year, Flynn not only expanded his parking facility on Merriman Road north of the airport but has developed a large section of nearby land where at least two major hotels and a restaurant are currently being constructed. An office complex had also been proposed. A new road into the development project completed earlier this year has been appropriately named Flynn Dr. Nearby residents have complained about the safety hazard the unsecured and abandoned structures present and claim that the buildings have been the targets of vandals. "Children are playing in these homes and on the junk piles. It's dangerous and somebody is going to get hurt," said one Hudson Street resident who wished to remain anonymous. Councilman Barry Baumann said Flynn is "intimidating people in the area. I looked at the area. He still hasn't moved his fence back which is on city property and over a local road. He thumbs his nose at every rule and regulation we have. Can we get an injunction against any more demolition?" he asked the city attorney at the city council meeting Monday night. Demolition permits are necessary to receive clearance from utility companies, Banko said. "We went through this last year with Flynn. He's been given fair warning on numerous occasions. But he goes ahead and does what he wants anyway," Banko said. Ecorse subdivision residents have long felt in limbo over impending development from the freeway and airport expansion on the south and Flynn's project on the east. The neighborhood is also bordered by Smith Road on the north and Middlebelt Road to the west. Earlier this year, Mayor Beverly McAnally met with area residents to explain the situation. She explained residents were not being forced or pressured to move and don't have to sell unless they want to. The city has offered residents several options including the formation of a corporation where property could be combined to form a single package for sale to interested buyers. As an incentive to relocate within city limits, residents were offered the possibility of special financing and the availability of city property. They completed a questionnaire earlier this year and according to the results, few appeared interested in these alternatives, McAnally said. One resident complained the city was not maintaining local streets. "We are the orphans of Romulus," they said. "The city is doing the absolute bare minimum. Our streets are full of chuckholes. I got a letter in the mail from a company called Industrial Resources on Telegraph. They want me to sell. I'm not going to go away and neither is this neighborhood." The mayor stressed that city services are being provided and said city streets have been graded and oiled twice so far this year, most recently a month ago. "The city is not going to get caught in the middle. No resident has shown an interest in relocation or banding together. It's important for residents to look after their own interests and don't sign anything without consulting an attorney. We are there if they want us to be there. Residents have come to no consensus on what they want to do," McAnally said. She noted that meeting about progress in the neighborhood are frequently conducted but contrary to one resident's accusations, they are not "secret meetings." "No one is being forced to move," said Dennis Oakes, city community and economic development director. "We're encouraging owners to do what they want to do. As a result of the plane crash, people are nervous about living there. We'll work with residents who want to stay. It's definitely not a good situation." Kathy Maichele drove past her former residence on Hudson Street. Her house is now abandoned and unboarded. The doors are gone and most of the windows are smashed. She and her husband Scott had called this home since 1978. "This used to be a nice house in an old and pretty neighborhood. But the noise was getting to us. It got so bad the windows started to shake. Flynn came around and made people an offer. We were living on the edge for three years wondering if he was going to buy us out or not. The neighborhood was getting run down and depressed. Property values were going up and homes values down. He made us an offer and we took it. It was a good investment. I'm going to miss that old apple tree," she said. They now live in an old farm house on five acres in Tipton. Mary Hammond, 76, and her husband Clarence built their home across the street in 1944. Here they raised an only son. "This is home to me. I'm going to stay here as long as I can. The planes don't bother me." A meeting between residents and city officials will be scheduled in the future according to McAnally.

A friend indeed

Economic development. Growth. An expanded tax base. All of these terms have become a working part of the vocabularies of residents in western Wayne County, especially in the city of Westland. All of these terms signal a new era for our local municipalities, a time for a change and a time for constant rebuilding.

The literary community deserves to ride on the coattails of this new, upbeat business and residential scenario, and a new public library in the city of Westland couldn't happen at a better time.

The Friends of the Westland Library have been for months promoting and supporting a new $2 million library building for the city. The structure would be located to the west of the Westland police station on Ford Road and would be constructed in a 1980s, modernistic style recommended by the American Library Association, a national advocacy and support group for public libraries.

To fund the project, the group is asking Westland residents to approve a 1-mill, indefinite increase in property taxes. The millage question will appear on the Nov. 3 general election ballot in Westland, and, if approved, construction on the project would begin in summer or fall of 1988 and be completed one year later.

We're urging residents to vote "yes" on the ballot proposal. While we recognize that for the homeowner of a $50,000 house in the city that "yes" vote will mean an extra $25 in taxes each year, we also recognize the importance of public libraries in our cities as a concern for illiteracy in American becomes more visible.

Opponents of the plan argue that the city of Westland already has a library — the Wayne-Westland Public Library on Wayne Road in Wayne. But this theory is only partially correct.

The Wayne-Westland library was built in 1957 to serve the then village of Wayne and Nankin Township. Once Wayne and Westland became cities in the 1960s, the ownership of the building was divided, and the operation of the facility was calculated according to the number of users from each city. For several years, Westland residents have represented 60 percent of the users at the facility, while Wayne residents accounted for only 40.

Keep in mind, however, that the city of Westland residents also use the libraries in the cities of Livonia and Garden City. Each year, the Westland budget allocates $200,000 to these three libraries so that citizens of the community have a book-borrowing facility to utilize.

We feel $200,000, as far as the city of Westland is concerned, can be better spent at home.

As the 10th largest city in the state, Westland is also one of the few large cities without a library of its own. Reader statistics at neighboring libraries prove that these residents use their public libraries, and this November ballot proposal will provide them the opportunity to demonstrate their willingness to financially back a library of their own.

Westland residents have for years demonstrated their desire to visit library facilities by readership statistics at the three libraries which they can attend. They have traveled across city boundaries and allocated thousands of dollars each year to other cities for the privilege of having books to read and learn from.

The time is now for Westland residents to have a library of their own.

The story tellers

flying solo

dave willett

Since the dawn of man, we have been providing information to one another through the telling of stories.

Early man told stories by drawing pictures on the walls of caves. We know that in Biblical times, family histories were preserved from one generation to another by telling, and retelling, stories of days gone by.

Elders could only find inner peace, it seems, by knowing that details of events entrusted to them by their elders had been accurately conveyed to their children and grandchildren.

Civilization began when man learned how to write his history. Through drawings, hieroglyphics and scratchings on animal skins and parchment, our ancestors were able to tell the history of all known things to those who would follow.

Only through accumulated knowledge have we been able to learn from history, so that repetition of past errors is theoretically unnecessary and avoidable.

We, of course, have become accustomed to a world wherein we are bombarded with information everywhere we go. A world in which we are starved for news is unimaginable for most. Yet there are those living in subcultures within our society who are still thirsty for information.

Consider what it would be like to find yourself transplanted in America from another land, unable to speak this language called English which is foreign to you. You very likely might feel cut off from friends and family in your homeland.

The newspapers here are in a language not familiar to you. Those you work with, if you are employed, grow impatient with your inability to understand their words. The pain, sadness and loneliness you feel in your heart would seem beyond description.

Immigrants from the Middle East, Vietnam, Central or South America all come to mind, but consider those brought to America against their will as slaves just a few generations ago.

Last week, I had the opportunity to listen to one of the all-time best American storytellers, as he addressed a group of newspaper editors and publishers in Portland Oregon during the National Newspaper Association meeting.

Alex Haley, the acclaimed author of "Roots," had asked our group during his remarks to us at our meeting last year in Nashville, if he might be invited to speak again this year.

As he began his remarks this year, he said that he had asked himself why he had done that. It was certainly not something that he recalled having ever done before.

The reason was apparent when he thought about the book that he is currently working on. Haley noted that as community newspaper writers and publishers, we are about the business of recording events that, were it not for us, would never be known.

We all can recall, no doubt, Haley's chronicle of the events from his childhood, when the only family history that existed came from the telling of stories.

He would sit for hours listening on the front porch telling of his family's ancestry . . . how Kunta Kinte was taken from his people in his native Africa to America and sold into slavery.

On the tales would go. From "Chicken George" to his own father, Roots recorded for the world the history of the Haley family, as well as a sense of what so many other families endured in that sad period of our history.

Alex Haley shared with us a story from his new book about one of the local people he recalls from his days growing up in Henning, Tenn. The local man's name was "Joad," and Haley explained after the telling of a long and colorful anecdote about this local character, that it gave him great satisfaction that others will know of Joad because of this new book.

Were it not for his telling of the story, all memory of Joad would be lost. For Haley, growing up as a boy in Henning, Joad was somebody.

It is easy for us to forget what it is we are doing in the community newspaper business. Perhaps that is because different people see it in different ways.

To Alex Haley, we are the "story tellers" for we record American history, Haley said. "Why, you're the only people I know of who have been known to have recorded events such as someone's cow getting loose," he told his audience with a grin.

Perhaps, for many the events chronicled in the pages of these newspapers are as of little consequence as someone's cows getting loose, but it is news about you, your families, friends and neighbors.

What goes on in your community, and in your life is what we are all about. Each and every one of you are "somebody" to us. You are important to us... and we hope we're important to you.

See you next week.

Board members challenges column

To The Editor:

Had you been in attendance consecutively at all Westwood Board meetings since 1982 as I have (with very few misses), you might have gained a different perspective than that which you write in your column of Sept. 23. (Other Side of the Meridian, Inkster Ledger-Star.)

At the time the McIntosh-Acres petition for a property transfer was presented to the Intermediate School District and subsequently the state Board of Education in 1982, we comprised (as now) less than 10 per cent of the of the revenue of this district. We took the legal action afforded us under the statutes of the state of Michigan because our children were not and are not being adequately served in several categories by Westwood, not the least of which is this area's geographic isolation from Westwood schools and close proximity to Crestwood schools. This case ended with the circuit court decision and was dropped.

However, we were charged at that time by the Intermediate School District and the state Board to take an active part in Westwood affairs. I personally, have taught in a Robichaud classroom as a volunteer. Another resident and I served on the eventually abandoned merger committee implemented by Westwood, but which ended with the abrupt transfer of Cherry Hill students to Wayne-Westland which came as a surprise to us all. We are always represented as an area at Westwood Board meetings, and a former resident of our area, since resigned, was board president. We have and are trying to participate.

I was elected by majority vote. I intend to serve students in the area, but no progress can be made unless questions are asked, unless public monies can be redirected toward better student gain.

There is too much at stake in public education today to maintain the status quo, especially in Westwood. I agree—the past should be the past so that we can move forward.

Q: What should the Michigan speed limit law be?

Viewpoint/ Questions and photos by ANP staff

Betty Miller
Mayor of Inkster

I feel that 65 mph is a legitimate speed.
People are driving too fast — 70 right now. I believe that if it is enforced at 65, it would be all right.
They wouldn't play games with 5 miles over.

Linda Chuhran
Canton Township Clerk

My personal opinion is that very few people do 55, and it's probably unreasonable.
I certainly don't think it should be 70 — probably a compromise in there somewhere.

Charles T. Griffin
Mayor of Westland

I have always thought that the speed limit should be 65 mph.
I think that the expressways were built for speeds higher than 55. Sixty-five mph feels more natural for drivers.

Beverly McAnally
Mayor of Romulus

There should be a relationship between the safety of the driving public and the interests of the enforcement agency.
Driving 55 mph seems to be hazardous to your health.

Pat Norton
Mayor of Wayne

I have always liked the 55 mph speed limit. I would be willing to try 65 mph if they enforced it.
But I think people would end up going 80 mph.
I believe it is hazardous to people's safety to go over 55.

Beverly Stinehour
Mayor of Belleville

I see no problem in putting the speed limit up to 65 mph, and I don't think the change will increase the number of accidents.

Health concerns more important than taxes

Carron & Company. Photo Cast, Inc., Peterson Machine Products Corp., Plasteel Corp., Alform Corp. And others.

These corporations, located in the southwest corner of the city of Inkster, have threatened to leave the city.

The business owners, who represent more than one-sixth of the tax-base of the city, want out because of Environmental Waste Control, Inc., a facility that primarily recycles and reclaims various types of oils used in industry.

But, in the process, Environmental Waste Control emits strong odors into the atmosphere. Those odors are detrimental to one's health, according to residents and employees in the area.

Those working and residing in the vicinity have served notice that they will no longer tolerate the odor. On Aug. 28, more than 100 residents and employees, wearing air filter masks, picketed the EWC, urging plant officials and city officials "to clean up their act or close down the plant."

Hurling into the eye of the tornado is newly appointed City Manager Grady Holmes, who inherited the problem from his predecessor, Gregory Knowles. Knowles left the city last month to accept a similar but more lucrative position in Greenville, N.C.

Holmes warned council

tom mooradian speaking

members during a meeting Wednesday night that to lose the plants would be economically disastrous and to further jeopardize the health and welfare of the citizens of the city can no longer be tolerated.

"These businesses represent six and one-quarter of our property tax base. And they are threatening to relocate, Macomb County would love to have our businesses, and it is time for action - action that can't be delayed," Holmes said.

And, the first step in a long legal battle appears imminent.

The state Department of Natural Resources and the federal Environmental Protection Agency have moved experts into the field to determine what kinds of emissions are being released by EWC. EWC, which is now up for license renewal, is revamping operations.

But the EWC action may have come too late to change any minds.

According to Carl W. Hornby Jr., executive vice president of the firm, EWC is in the process of installing $350,000

Reigle supports 'tamer' Internal Revenue Service

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Is there a taxpayer who doesn't sweat and fear an audit of his federal income tax returns?

And for good and documented reasons. There literally have been thousands of horror stories about taxpayers who have been audited and abused by the Internal Revenue Service agents who in case after case have overstepped their authority in their zeal to wrestle away every possible dollar they can from the taxpayer.

All of that could become a thing of the past if Congress approves Senate Bill 604, introduced in February by U.S. Senator David H. Pryor (D-Arkansas) and presently in the hands of the Committee on Finance.

S.B. 604 has earned the distinction of becoming the "Taxpayers' Bill of Rights."

U.S. Senator Donald Riegle (D-Michigan) recently became the 36th cosponsor of the bill. In endorsing the proposed legislation, Riegle stressed that it is very important that the Internal Revenue Service not abuse its powers.

"The IRS is now taking steps to make sure that its actions are not oppressive," Riegle said. "but it is very important to keep the pressure on so that taxpayers are not threatened by IRS computers that may have selected people in error. We have seen too many cases where the IRS has taken abusive actions that should not have been taken."

The proposed legislation would set up procedures involving taxpayer interviews, which today are usually dominated by the IRS interviewer putting pressure

"This proposed legislation is one of the most crucial bits of legislation to come to the floor of Congress in many years."

— Donald Riegle
U.S. Congressman

on the taxpayer. The legislation would also establish a federal General Accounting Office to oversee the administration of the Internal Revenue laws.

The law would also abolish the evaluation of Internal Revenue Service employees on the basis of the sums that they manage to collect from the taxpayers from audits or investigations in which the Internal Revenue Service personnel participated.

It would also put limits upon surveillance or maintaining records of individuals and organizations illegally obtained.

Among proposed procedures in the proposed law, taxpayers would be given "Miranda rights," ensuring legal privileges as that of remaining silent or of being represented by counsel. Miranda is the surname of the defendant in a highly controversial case in which the United States Supreme Court ruled that a person placed under arrest must be informed about his rights.

In S.B. 604, an IRS officer or employee "shall prior to any interview warn the taxpayer:

- "He has a right to remain silent;
- "Any statement he makes may be used against him; and
- "He has the right to the presence of an attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary."

However, as in the case of police arrests, the taxpayer may waive the rights if such waiver is made voluntarily and knowingly.

Subsequently, if the taxpayer indicates in any manner and at any time during the interview that he wishes to consult with an attorney, certified public accountant or enrolled agent, the interview must be discontinued, and there can be no questioning regardless of whether he may have answered some questions.

The new law would also prohibit a levy on any property when the levy and sales expenses would exceed either the liability for which the levy is made or the fair market value of the levied property.

And, it would also place upon the Internal Revenue Service the burden of proof on all issues in all administrative and judicial proceedings between the IRS and a taxpayer.

"Obviously, this proposed legislation is one of the most crucial bits of legislation to come to the floor of the Congress in many years," Riegle said. "This taxpayers' bill of rights should do away with many of the past abuses of the IRS."

Solid waste is top priority for state lawmakers

Recently the Michigan Toxic Substance Control Commission issued a policy statement about Michigan options for disposing solid waste. The commission said that while municipal incineration of waste solves some of the problems associated with polluting landfills, it creates other problems, including contaminated air emissions and the disposal of the potentially toxic ash that incineration creates.

The commission put forth the view that the best long-term solution of the Michigan waste problem lies in reducing the volume of waste that must be dealt with. The policy statement urges consideration of mandatory recycling laws and programs, which are currently in place in other states.

The recommendations of the Toxic Substance Control Commission will receive serious consideration from state policy makers. In the meantime, the legislature is considering a number of measures that would encourage municipalities and businesses to reduce the quantity of solid waste and to develop alternative recycling and remanufacturing programs for certain reusable resources.

A bill now being considered by a state House-Senate conference committee would amend and clarify the state Solid Waste Management Act to provide a more comprehensive approach to the problem solid waste disposal in the state. This approach would include increased recycling of certain materials. Another House bill now before a Senate committee would require Michigan counties to give particular consideration to recycling or composting certain materials before waste management plans for new landfills or incinerators could be approved by the state.

A House committee is considering a bill that would regulate the size and design of existing scrap tire stockpiles, requiring safety features such as access lanes and adequate protective fencing. It also would add a one dollar fee to every new tire sold for five years. The money collected through the fee would be used to fund research and development of methods of recycling the old tires into usable and affordable fuel. Sponsors of the bill hope that recycling would be so profitable that scrap tire stockpiles would disappear from the Michigan landscape.

Like any other populous, highly developed society, Michigan generates an incredible amount of solid waste. Tons of materials that are thrown away every day must be disposed of in a safe, efficient manner. We have seen the serious dangers posed by massive landfills, while the potential dangers of extensive incineration are becoming evident. In order to help reduce the danger, state lawmakers are considering legislation that would encourage reduction of waste and the re-use of certain valuable materials.

Store owner loves making people smile

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

Who likes to collect dolls, and who prefers savings rare coins? Ask Gary Wobbe, owner of Gary Wobbe's Hobby Shop in Wayne. He will have all the answers.

Wobbe, who bought the hobby shop two years ago, said he had visited the store for many years, prior to buying it for his own business interests. He said with confidence that he is very familiar with the likes and dislikes of the hobbyists who come into his shop. He'll even go so far as to say that there is a set pattern for hobbyists throughout the year.

"Right now, the big thing is the electric train and the railroad sets. People who have made train sets a hobby are most likely gearing up for the holidays, when they will set up their train sets around the trees and when they can be indoors more to enjoy them," Wobbe said.

The seasons play an important role in determining which hobbies are going to be more popular, Wobbe said.

"Naturally, the climate outdoors will have a lot to do with it. If it's warmer out, people will want to be out there, flying kites, working the radio-activated planes or cars or boats. Those are things that don't work well inside. But once it gets cold outside, people turn their hobbies into the indoor projects. The train sets and the building models are always the big sellers at this time of the year," he continued.

Radio-activated cars, planes and boats seem to be the most popular items this year, Wobbe said. Many hobbyists enjoy building the models in the winter and taking them into the outdoors once the spring weather returns.

But for people who don't have a lot of time to spend actually building the cars, planes or boats, Wobbe said there are also the ready-to-go models that are already built and can be used immediately - with no assembly required.

"Besides selling the typical train set parts and the model-building sets - which seem to sell to more men than women - we also have an arts and crafts section, complete with needlepoint, rug hooking, calligraphy, woodburning and more. My wife handles that department," said Wobbe. The women seem to gravitate toward that section when they come in with a man. I rarely see a woman come in who's looking to buy a rocket that she wants to build and use herself. So it works out well, because if we didn't have that section in the shop, the wives would be tugging on their husband's shoulder, asking them to leave, because they would probably be bored in the shop," Wobbe said with a chuckle.

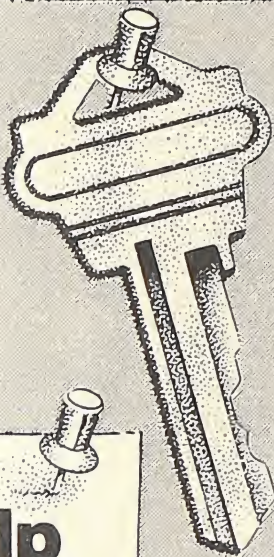

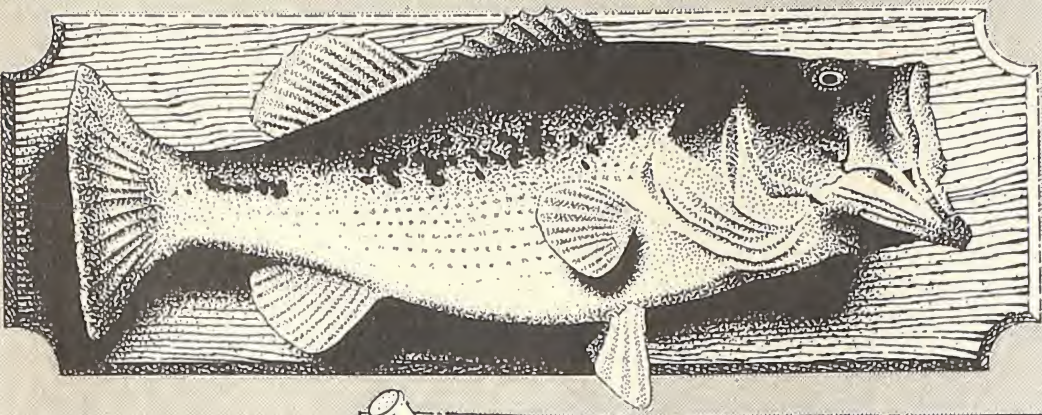

And after two years of owning the business, Wobbe said he has learned to enjoy the relaxed atmosphere and pace of his shop.

"People are here because they want to be. Everyone likes to do recreational things, and that's what hobbies are all about. My customers are buying things that will make them happy. They leave with a smile. That's something that makes the work all worthwhile," Wobbe explained.

Hundreds of hobbies . . .

Hobbies: Mental help

Not only does "all work and no play make Jack a dull boy," but the lack of recreational activities is not good for one's mental health.

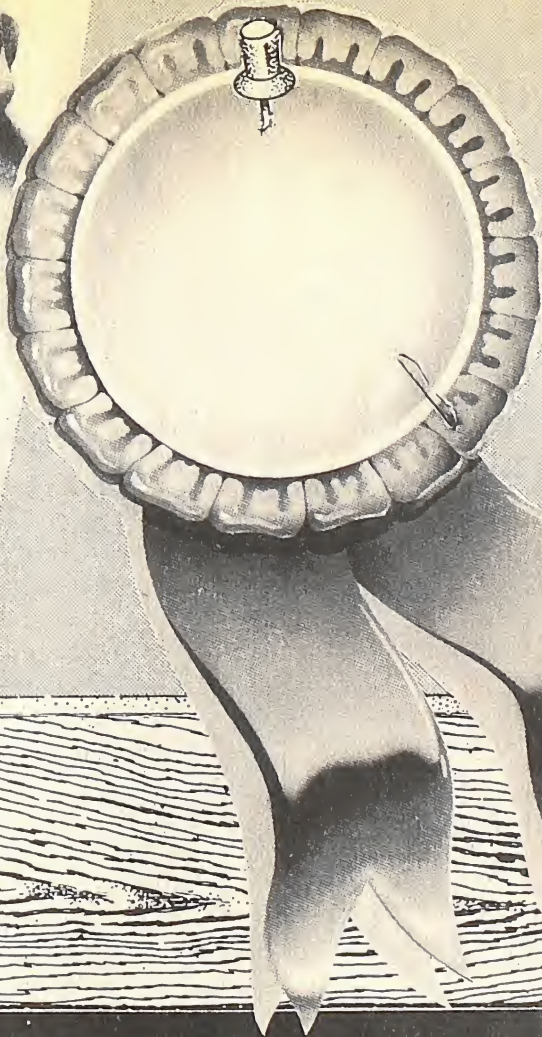

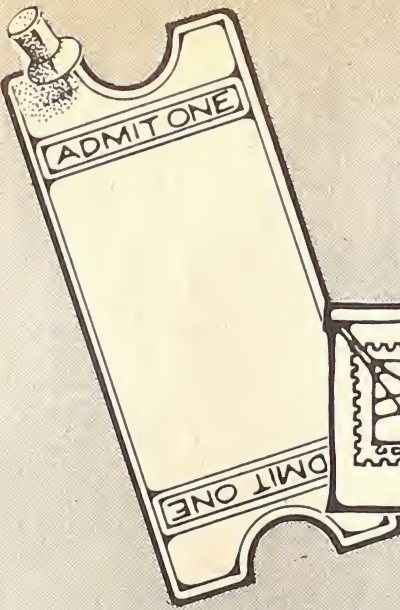

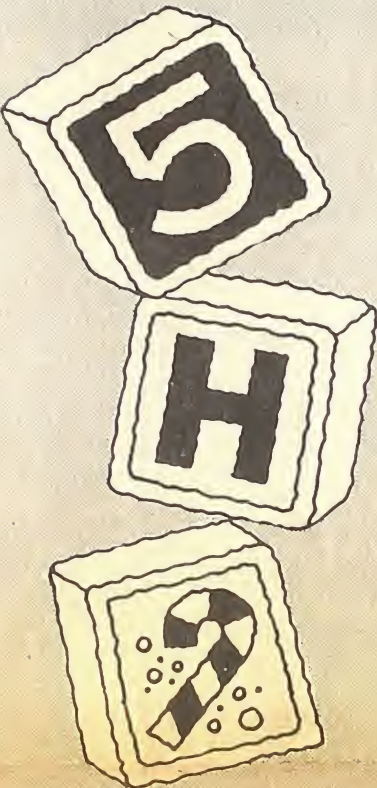

Everyone needs some type of diversion, according to Eugene Hadwiger, psychotherapist at the Woodcreek Counseling Center in Farmington Hills. That diversion may take the form of active pastimes such as jogging, hiking, fishing or bowling, or it could be a lone activity such as stamp collecting, reading or needlecrafts.

"People often tell their therapists that they are bored, but what they are really saying is that they are depressed," Hadwiger said. "When questioned about their boredom, the therapist often finds that the person has no hobbies or diversions."

Hadwiger said it is important for individuals to have hobbies or recreational activities to help them stay interested in life.

"For some people, their lives consist of working, going

Music boxes make a magical hobby

Louise Strohchein of Romulus lives in a fantasy world of miniatures and music. Here, tiny dancers and delicate ballerinas have perfected their routines, after hundreds of impromptu performances.

Strohchein collects music boxes. Some are handcrafted, others are manufactured. The boxes originate from the far corners of the earth - from the Soviet Union and the Orient to the corner drug store on Wayne Road.

Her collection now numbers about 150. The hobby was started by her husband, who gave her one of the delicate boxes as a gift early in their marriage.

"I just like them. I like anything that plays music. They're a world of culture all by themselves. I don't remember why I got the first one, but now everybody gives me a music box. If it's my birthday or Christmas, they say, 'Let's get mom a music box," Strohchein explained.

Some of the music boxes play classic movies songs, like Somewhere Over the Rainbow, The Way We Were, Memories and Laura's Theme. For the contemporary tastes, one special box even hums a Stevie Wonder tune. And one little Russian bear called Ursa the Great plays the Troika.

Grandma keeps busy making knitted dolls

The face lights up when you talk about children. They are, after all, a bridge to immortality for a family.

The smile is a smile of love. And the hands, an instrument of that love.

For hours, the wrinkled and strong fingers on the hands of 80-year-old Ester Hines are busy. Like a bee, they have a mission to weave or quilt or to make her version of the popular cabbage dolls.

"It's a hobby with me," she said with a smile that one can't easily forget. "Those cabbage dolls are for my grandchildren."

One. Two. Three grandchildren? "No," Ester replied. "Some 244 of them."

Two hundred and forty-four? "Yes, sir. We counted them the other day. I have 158 grandchildren, 83 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren."

Ester Hines

Hines continues to sew.

"And, oh, I love each and every one of them," she continued.

"Yes, sewing is my hobby," she explained, "but, more important, it is an expression of one's love."

- Tom Mooradian

Antique dolls are more than a hobby

Like most girls, Joyce Murch, of Wayne, grew up playing with dolls. But, unlike those "other" girls, Murch never outgrew her fondness for dolls. She still "plays" with them today.

Murch has been collecting dolls for more than 10 years and said that she became interested in doll collecting after she had a daughter.

Murch owns 25 authentic antique dolls, and she currently has 150 reproductions of the originals.

"Authentic antique dolls are very rare and very expensive. They cost thousands of dollars. Many people want the dolls but not the prices, so they begin to find out about making their own reproductions," Murch explained. "I did purchase a few, and then I started to work on reproducing the antiques, which became a hobby in itself. Now, I make reproductions of antique dolls, and I also teach courses in making dolls."

She also opened her own doll shop six years ago, "Dolls by Joyce," located on Wayne Road, near Joy, Westland. And while she will admit that the business is "work," it is a job she enjoys reporting to day after day.

ANNIVERSARIES

Hartig – 50th

A celebration was staged last month in honor of Michael and Ruth (Walters) Hartig to mark their 50th wedding anniversary.

The two were married in Denton on Sept. 11, 1937.

The party took place in Belleville Sept. 13 and was hosted by their four daughters, Ruth, Ethel, Donna and Mary. The couple have lived in the area for 61 years and are members of St. John's Lutheran Church.

They have 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

home, watching television and then going to bed – a very boring routine,” Hadwiger said. “They really need some kind of diversions in terms of having good mental health.”

Hadwiger said the benefit of hobbies and diversions is that the pastime gives the participant something else to think about and focus on other than himself. The eight or more hours per day that people spend at work should not be all that there is of life for them, the therapist said. After a day at work, it is very important to relax physically and emotionally.

For the so-called workaholic, Hadwiger said, the only time he can relax is when on vacation – if he will consent to take a vacation. The therapist said there is no easy way to persuade a workaholic to take time out for recreation. The only way to influence the workaholic, he said, is by being a model and showing him the benefits of fun and relaxation.

“Diversions can include dining out, going to a ball game, visiting the Renaissance Festival, taking a trip to a cider mill or picking raspberries,” Hadwiger said. “Hobbies and recreational activities will be different for different people because of the diverse interests that individuals have.”

Ideally, a person who has a desk job and, consequently, has little exercise during working hours should choose an active hobby.

Although it's sometimes difficult for people to take on a new hobby or recreational activity, Hadwiger said, they usually enjoy it and become aware of the benefits to their mental attitude.

Plane builder enjoys destroying his works

Steve Kott is not your average model airplane builder. In fact, building the planes is only half the fun for the 43-year-old Wayne resident.

Kott builds the planes by hand. And they don't come out of a box either. It takes skill and a lot of time to piece the planes together, he said. “These are custom-made airplanes,” said Kott. “They are high-tech, and we test them in wind tunnels the same way real airplanes are tested.”

Kott uses foam for wings and other materials such as balsa wood and maple for the body.

A lot of pride and hard work go into each airplane, Kott said, but he doesn't take care of them very well. He takes his planes around the country for one reason – to fight.

“It's what we call dog-fighting,” said Kott. “We simulate actual battles of World War I and World War II.”

Kott will travel to the Soviet Union next year and represent the U.S. in a 17-country model airplane competition.

“I have been trying to get on the U.S. team for a long time,” said Kott, who has been in competition since 1960. “It is the most prestigious event. I am very excited.”

Some health plans are like hospital gowns:

They never cover as much as you wish they would.

When it comes to health care, traditional medical insurance leaves a lot to be desired. Because they only cover a portion of your costs. Health Alliance Plan, on the other hand, is much more comprehensive. We offer complete coverage for virtually everything from pediatrics to geriatrics. And this extensive medical coverage is available from over 1,600 physicians at 23 medical centers, 18 hospitals and hundreds of individual doctor's office locations.

To find out how you can become a member, call 872-8100. You'll learn why Health Alliance Plan is such a great way to cover your medical needs. And that's the naked truth.

Mildred's apple pie

It's that time of year again...fall. And the second best thing about fall is the apple harvest. The very best thing is Halloween, which I love the way most people love Christmas. Halloween is truly one of my favorite holidays. But that is another story, what we're discussing here is apples.

Occasionally, just occasionally, I do harbor some regrets at the poor, maligned apple pie. Let's face it, a truly fine apple pie is a real masterpiece. And it isn't easy. The crust has to be perfect, rich, flaky and yet crisp without being doughy. The filling has to be spicy enough to be tickle the palate and yet sweet enough to be a real dessert. Then we get to the demanding texture of the filling itself...overcook it or use the wrong apples and you have mush, while undercooked pie filling makes you think of raw potatoes. No, the perfect apple pie is a culinary achievement of the highest order and should not be cheated of a rightful place in any cook's repertoire.

I can't bake apple pie for the life of me. My mother, however, can bake them to perfection. She always has been able to and probably always will. The woman has a gift, no doubt about it. Her cream pies were always envied by every woman in the neighborhood, but ah, when it came to apple, there was no contest.

I have worked with her recipe for years. I've followed it to the exact specifications. I've done everything she told me and everything other great cooks have advised, but apple pie still eludes me. I do, however, intend to keep trying.

Here's my mother's recipe, and my best wishes for success. Let me know how you do. Personally, I think I'm jinxed, or perhaps mom put some kind of hex on me trying to get even for all those dishes I didn't wash. This is an unusual apple pie, with cheddar cheese right in the topping, but it is spectacular...for those who can get it to come out of the oven the way my mother always could. And she did it without a recipe most of the time, the showoff.

MOM'S APPLE CHEDDAR PIE

- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup lard, shortening or half and half
- 3 tablespoons sour cream

Sift flour and salt into mixing bowl. Cut shortening into mixture with pastry blender until mixture looks like coarse meal. Add sour cream, 1 tablespoon at a time. Gather the dough into a ball and divide in half. Wrap in waxed paper and chill for at least one hour. Roll out each half on a lightly floured board until 1/8 inch thick.

- FILLING
- Crust for 9-inch pie
- 6 tart apples, peeled, cored, and thinly sliced
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
 - 2 teaspoons lemon zest
 - 1 teaspoon orange zest
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
 - 1/8 teaspoon salt

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Combine the sliced apples with the sugar, flour, zests, cinnamon, cloves and salt and spread evenly in the prepared shell.

- TOPPING
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/8 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 cup butter, melted

Blend topping ingredients to a pebble-like consistency and sprinkle over apples. Bake for about 40 minutes, until lightly browned. Cool. (This is great served with a dollop of sour cream).

Pasta PASSION

Now, that's Italian . . .

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

When residents in western Wayne County want a taste of Italy, they head for Canton Township. And when they want to satisfy their passion for the finest pasta in town, they run.

For it is there that Mary and Greg Gatto can be found dishing up every taste-tempting Italian treat imagineable and the purest pasta this side of the Atlantic.

The Gattos are the owners of the Roman Forum restaurant on Ford Road. The two opened what was then the first Italian restaurant in the area 11 years ago and have been packing people in the eatery ever since.

What is their secret? It's simple . . .

"We keep it simple. Our sauces are on the mild side. And we try to use as little salt as possible. Salt and pepper is provided on every table if people want more," Mary said. "Even Italians like our Italian food. They come here because they know what is authentic."

Authentic it is. Both Mary and Greg were born not far from one another in the same section of southern Italy - Calabria. Greg immigrated to the U.S. at age 18, and Mary arrived when she was only 2.

Married 32 years, the Gattos have three children. All three kids have worked in the restaurant at one time, and all have come to appreciate their parents' flair for fine ethnic cooking.

"Most recipes are handed down from generation to generation. They don't really change much. The reason people like Italian food is simple. It's tasty. It's usually easy to prepare. And it's healthy. But go easy on the fettuchini. That has cholesterol. And pizza, they say that is one of the healthiest foods around," said Mary with a smile.

But enough about the pizza - October is pasta month. And the Gattos are well-prepared with every sort of Italian noodle under the sun, mixed neatly with just the right sweet sauces and spices. But don't take their word for it. Try a few of their favorite recipes on for size.

FETTUCCINE ALFREDO

- 4 ounces imported Swiss cheese
- 4 ounces imported Gruyere cheese
- 4 ounces Fontina cheese
- 4 ounces grated Parmesan cheese
- 8 ounces heavy whipping cream
- 8 tablespoons butter

Melt butter in sauce pan. Stir in cream. Add cheeses. Let melt and blend together. Cook only until mixture simmers around the edge of the pan. Pour over cooked noodles. Add shrimp, crab meat or scallops to cheeses while cooking for seafood alfredo. Makes four servings.

QUICK ITALIAN TOMATO SAUCE

- 1/2 chopped onions
- 1/4 cup olive or cooking oil
- 1 clove minced garlic
- 1 to 1 1/2 pound ground beef
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano
- 2 eight-ounce cans tomato sauce
- 1 cup water

Add onions and oil to sauce pan. Cook until tender. Stir in garlic, parsley, oregano and basil. Add ground beef and cook until browned. Add tomato sauce and simmer gently 15 to 20 minutes. Serve over spaghetti or mostacioli. Serves four to six.

SPAGHETTI FRITTATA

- 1/2 to 3/4 thin spaghetti
- 1/2 tablespoon olive or cooking oil
- 1/2 to 1 tablespoon parsley
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 3/4 to 1 cup grated parmesan cheese

Cook noodles according to directions. Heat oil in frying pan. When hot, add parsley and cooked spaghetti. Stir in noodles until coated with oil. Mix parmesan cheese with egg mixture and pour evenly over noodles. When slightly brown on one side, turn and brown on other side. Serve hot. If desired, cut up sausage, mushrooms or ham can be added before blending in egg mixture. Serves 4 to 5 people.

EGGPLANT PARMIGIANA

- 2 large eggplants
- 1/4 cup flour
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 cups seasoned bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 2 18-ounce cans tomato sauce or

- 1 16-ounce jar marinara sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 3/4 pound mozzarella cheese, sliced

Peel eggplant and cut into 1/2 slices. Dip eggplant slices into flour, then into eggs and into bread crumbs. Heat oil in large skillet. Brown eggplant slices in hot oil on one side, turn, and brown on the other side. Add oil as needed. Drain eggplant on paper towels. Place in single layer in 13-by-10-by-2 baking dish. Combine sauce, salt, oregano and pepper. Pour over eggplant. Arrange cheese slices on top. Cover with foil. Bake in oven at 400 degrees for 20 minutes or until cheese is bubbly and melted. Makes 8 servings.

FLORENTINE BOWKNOT COOKIES

- 1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- Oil for deep fat frying
- 1 cup confectioners' sugar

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into bowl. Cut in margarine until well blended. Stir in eggs, mix thoroughly. Knead on a floured board until dough is elastic. Let dough rest one hour. Divide dough into four parts. Roll each part into an 8-by-10-by-1/8 rectangle. Cut into strips 8-inches long and 3/4 of an inch wide. Tie each strip into a loose knot. Fry three or four at a time in hot (375 degree) oil until golden brown. Remove with slotted spoon. Drain on paper towels. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Serve hot. Makes four dozen.

PASTA SALAD

- 2 cups spiral or elbow macaroni, cooked
- 1/2 cup celery, chopped fine
- 1/3 onion, chopped fine
- 1/3 cup green pepper, chopped fine
- 1/2 cup tuna fish
- 1/3 cup snow crab meat
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- 1 teaspoon dried basil
- Pinch oregano

Mix together celery, onion, green pepper, tuna, and crab meat. Blend in 1/3 cup olive oil, 1 teaspoon dried basil and a pinch of oregano. Mix together and blend well. Add cooked pasta and salt to taste. Serve cold. Should make four servings.

Almost everyone loves pasta in one form or another, and the ANP staffers are no exception. The last two recipes are not by Mary Gattos, but are presented for your approval from the staff.

PASTA CARBONARA

- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 3/4 pound bacon, cooked and chopped
- 1 pound fettuccine noodles
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese, grated
- Pepper and salt to taste

Heat oil in a skillet and cook onion until golden. Add bacon and heat several minutes. Meanwhile, in a saucepan, heat water and cook fettuccine. Drain pasta. Add eggs, cheese and pepper to skillet and cook over low heat for two to four minutes. Add pasta, stir and serve. Should serve four.

STUFFED SHELLS MARINARA

- 1 12-ounce package large pasta shells
- 1 7-ounce can tuna in oil
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 28-ounce can tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons leaf basil, crumbled
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 cup cream style cottage cheese
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cook shells 9 minutes and drain and place in a large bowl of cold water. While pasta cooks, drain tuna oil into a large skillet and heat. Sauté onion and garlic in oil until soft. Stir in tomato sauce, tuna, salt, basil and pepper and simmer for 15 minutes. Add water if mixture gets too thick. Cook spinach, following package directions and drain well. Beat eggs in a medium-sized bowl with a wire whip. Add cooked spinach, bread crumbs, cottage cheese, salt and pepper and stir until well blended. Drain shells. Fill each with spinach-cheese mixture. Arrange stuffed shells over half of the sauce in a 9 x 12 inch pan. Drizzle remaining sauce. Cover casserole with aluminum foil and back at 45 minutes or until shells are tender or until casserole is bubbly hot.

Scrabble players seek competition

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

A group of local residents have been scrambling around for weeks, trying to find big words with lots of letters.

No, these residents aren't trying to impress anyone with their vocabulary skills. What they are doing, however, is chalking up a few extra points in their weekly Scrabble competitions.

Jerome Boyd, director of the Scrabble Players Club 115 isn't yet a pro at the game. But he is enthusiastic about his club.

"A lot of people really enjoy the games. I think we would have better turnouts, but people really don't know we exist," said Boyd, whose club meets at 6:45 p.m. every Wednesday at the Fire Station Senior Center in Livonia.

Residents from around the area are invited to attend the meetings.

"The number of players varies from week to week, but I'd say we average around 12," Boyd said.

Club 115 has been in existence for six years, according to Boyd, who has been active for the past two years. The club will host a tournament in December, and Boyd is also preparing for the competition.

"We are expecting a large turnout," said Boyd. "There will be people from all over the state, and it's open to the public. Everyone is welcome."

Another Scrabble club in Wayne County is located in Southfield. Club Director Ester Norber said the atmosphere there is relaxed, but the competition is fierce.

"We have some very fine players, and they come to win," said Norber. "But we also have beginners. The experienced players will help them. Everyone is very nice and easy to get along with."

The Southfield club, which was organized five years ago, meets at the White Hall Club House on Providence Drive and Nine Mile Road at 6:45 p.m. Mondays.

(Incidentally, "Scrabblemania" is worth at least 10 points on any Scrabble board.)

For further information, contact Norber at 559-7157.

The new month brings changes for all

ARIES (March 21 - April 19) Sometimes being independent and strong can really get in the way of our need for warmth, affection, and closeness. It's all in the timing, of when to be strong and show that strength, and when to be soft and loving. The love awareness that this brings into your life can make problems seem so much easier to face. This can renew a current relationship, or start a whole new relationship, or start a whole new relationship. New beginnings of some kind where relationships are concerned in any case.

TAURUS (April 10 - May 20) This month you realize what you've been doing that restricts you, and why. It may have a lot to do with someone special in your life. This should be the most gentle process you've ever done, to claim more control over your life, without the other feeling shut out. You can do this with love and kindness, healing a lot of resentment that's been building up over this. You may find your work takes a new turn, and it may have something to do with relationships with those you work with.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21) You may have to shake someone loose who you have outgrown in some way. You're craving romance with all the frills. Don't put a good supportive friend in the trash, in exchange for romantic excitement. You may find you've got lots of time to regret it. Really evaluate what you're willing to trade in your life to have something else you want. Get your priorities clear, and in their proper order. If you end something, don't get angry at others for the consequences.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22) You're strong, you're independent, and you've beat your freedom drum real hard. Now, all those who care and love you, are letting go and letting you win. They are letting go of their attachment to you. You may be making some mistakes in the name of freedom, that later on down the road you may call loneliness. No one wants to be a convenience and put on a shelf. And with them go the belief they have had in you. This can be salvaged if you're willing to put aside the justification that is very thin now and not working. Love is stronger than fun and temporary excitement.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) You're declaring your independence where your belief system is concerned. You're starved for knowledge and you are loving the opportunities to share what you learn. You may find a new person entering your life who could become a life-long friend, but more importantly, this will be a person who will be quite a teacher to you. Grow and help those around you to grow. An opportunity for public speaking or teaching should be accepted!

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22) Paying off old bills, being released from old obligations and being freed up is the energy pattern this month. This leaves a lot of money, time, or energy available to you. Don't repeat the old cycle again. Do things totally differently, differently than you've ever done before. If you resent others' dependence, then don't have them owing you. If you don't want to be dependent on them, don't borrow from them. If you want love, give it, don't withhold it. If you want to be lonely, keep seeing those who love you as the enemy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23) You have a few more things to accomplish before you're ready to let go of that hard tough exterior and let the world know how much you feel inside and how deep it goes. You're star sights

ready to start your life's work, you're picky about who you do this work with, and you want read honest-to-goodness love in your life. Don't worry Libra, it will be there if you let the Universe bring it in instead of trying to push the river and make it happen. You're lovable, and have a lot to offer. Everyone loves a lover! Nothing real can be threatened. Remember!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 21) You are making very big changes in your work, and you're probably filled with equal amounts of hope and excitement for the new direction, and fear and abject horror at some of these drastic moves. But, you know what? You're not only going to do super, but you're not seeing anything but the tip of the iceberg where your potential is concerned. Value your support team, especially the special ones who love you the most, because when you get scared, they blow the fears away so you can see the sunshine of their belief in you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21) If you are playing in a relationship that interferes with an on-going more serious relationship, it's a big mistake. It's best to look at friendships and how you're making your choices and judgements for yourself, based on integrity values. You could grab the brass ring. If you are basing those decisions and choices on selfish or momentary gratification, you could lose everything. You will see separation like oil and water between integrity and swamp creatures all around you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) You may be considering bringing down a protective wall you've had up for a long, long, time. You're earning trust with others, and you're willing to let others own your trust too, now. You'll also find that your public image has a wonderful opportunity to come way up through your own efforts. Don't cling to independence so hard that you miss opportunities when others want to help. You may be doing some detective work or research for a friend. It may be hard not to be judgemental when you discover what's going on. But try!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) You may be making your declarations of independence, and making plans for your new directions. You've learned a lot from others, and you now have to start using the knowledge and put it into action. You may find a wonderful new direction for your career, perhaps including reaching of some kind, and there's also the possibility of travel or dealings with folks from other cultures or even foreign countries. Be very open to opportunities, and to new ideas.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20) You may find yourself all on your own where money is concerned and you may have to resolve this one on your own without the safety net. On the other hand, you will gain financial knowledge that you needed and you'll be very proud of how well you handle this one. Romance can be making a major shift, and commitments are on your mind. You'll either clarify and solidify an ongoing relationship, or you'll start a very real, very solid new relationship. In either case, you'll find love reaches your heart before the Holidays, Pisces.

Tell us about those mothers-in-law

Are mothers-in-law guilty of meddling and favoritism, or is the stereotype image a myth like the wicked stepmother of children's fairy tales?

A new holiday honoring mothers-in-law is slated to be celebrated on the last Sunday of October. On the Wednesday prior to that date, Associated Newspapers will take an in-depth look at the relationships between mothers-in-law and the spouses of their sons and daughters.

The names of special mothers-in-law should be submitted prior to Oct. 19. In the Oct. 21 edition, we will list an "honor roll" of good mothers-in-law along with comments about their special attributes. In the event that we receive some negative comments, we will publish those - minus the names - in another column.

Send your nominations to Associated Newspapers, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Mich.

Justice: Court officer dedicated to youth

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Tim Smith of Westland lives the good life. He's not rich or famous by conventional standards. But a dedication to his job, volunteer work and young people has brought the wealth of an enjoyable lifestyle to his doorstep.

"I enjoy helping others," explained Smith, who has found a particular interest in helping local youths. And at age 27, Smith isn't that far removed from the "youth" label of those he serves.

A 1978 graduate of John Glenn High School, Westland, Smith earned a degree in criminal justice from Eastern Michigan University. He was married last year to wife Julie, and the couple are expecting their first child in January.

But before having a child of his own, Smith has been able to receive some firsthand experience in dealing with kids. He has been a volunteer probation officer for two years and was last year named the night probation officer for the 18th District Court in Westland.

He also coaches little league baseball - a hobby of his for the past 10 years - and mixes the multitude of volunteer activities with his full-time job as a nuclear operations officer at the Detroit Edison Fermi II plant in Monroe.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: What is a court probation program do for people?

SMITH: Our object is to gain their trust. We explain the judicial system. We know whether or not we've been doing our job if a clients gives us more than a yes or profile

no answer.

Clients come in and talk about their problems. We're there to help with any problem, because anything could set them off and they might violate their probation. We want them to learn to adjust to problems in their lives no matter what they are.

There are 53 probation officers working at night. Each has a caseload anywhere from two to 20 adult individuals who are between the ages of 18 and 60.

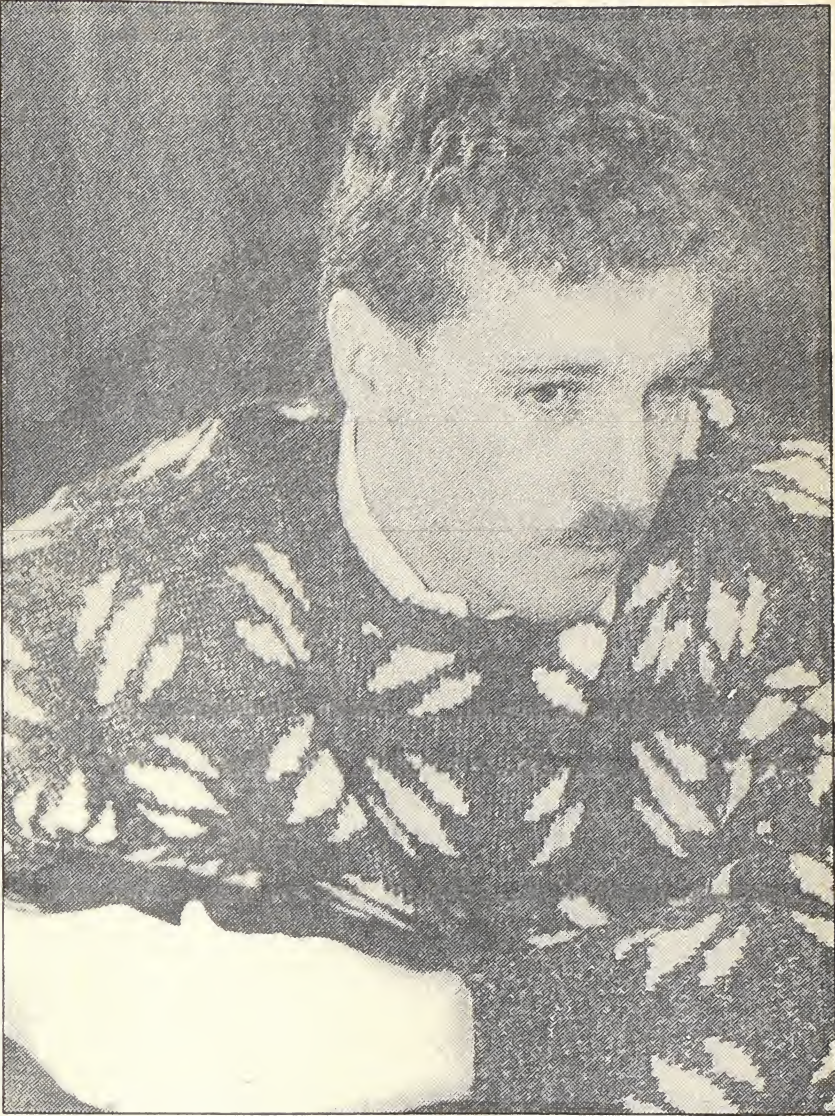

ANP: How did you get involved in the program?

SMITH: I started as a volunteer intern during my last year of college. Court officials wanted me to learn the probation part of the court. One thing led to another, and I really like it. I got to see all sides of the court system. I have five clients myself.

ANP: What type of criminal activities have these clients been accused of?

SMITH: We work with people convicted of misdemeanors, anything from drunk driving to shoplifting. All felonies would go to circuit court. Clients receive a probation sentence from the judge usually because they're first-time offenders.

We see clients on a regular basis for as short as six months or as long as two years. We talk at least once a week, sometimes everyday. We have used a phone system whereby clients receive a phone call at random. In many cases the client is only allowed to go to work, school or home. Each week, we review their weekly schedule. The program is pretty thorough. They can't work overtime without receiving permission from their probation officer before hand.

I've lived in Westland all my life. I come in contact with a lot of people, and quite a few of them I've grown up with. I always avoid these cases.

ANP: What is most important about being a baseball coach?

SMITH: First, you have to have an extraordinarily understanding wife. And I do. We have games on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday and practices in between. Because I have probation on Monday and Thursday, I bypass my wife quite a lot.

I coach the 14-year-olds on the Sandy Koufax traveling team. During the summer, we took second in the state. The world series was conducted in Puerto Rico. That would have been nice. It's a lot of fun and rewarding. In 10 years of coaching, I've taken kids to the world series in Baltimore and Atlanta.

Working with people is exciting and challenging. When you can gain someone's trust, it's such a good feeling.

Clipping nails is important

More than any other grooming favor we are asked to do during our off-hours, I could estimate we've cut more dog nails than we could count - all among our training students.

It isn't that the student is unable to perform this task, it's that almost every dog dislikes having his nails cut because his owner has bungled the job so many times, the owner is now afraid he'll make the toenails bleed, and the dog senses this fear and becomes defensive about this very necessary grooming procedure.

When purchasing nail clippers, buy the size having the large enough opening to accommodate the nail when your dog is grown. The tip of the dog's nail fits into a small circular opening in order to be trimmed, and it's better to buy a large size to fit any nail rather than one too small to clip a large nail.

Nails should be cut on a regular basis according to growth. Every dog is different. Some dogs require nail cutting bi-monthly and others more (or less) often. If your dog is taken on walks regularly - especially on cement - the cement acts like an emery board, and the dog's nails are worn down solely through a nightly walk.

If your dog seldom is walked, the nails will not wear down naturally and the owner will have to cut them. Dogs have been brought in for grooming who haven't had their nails cut in at least a year. The nails had grown in a circle, into the pads of the dogs feet causing unbearable pain along with crippling the dog in the process. The nails must be cut regularly for the dog's health and comfort.

When cutting the dogs nails, remember to hold the clippers upside down. In this way, you'll be cutting less nail than it appears. This will help you not cut the vein.

Only cut the tip of the nail. Position your dog in a comfortable sit or stand, bend the foot back at its natural bend and simply trim the very tip of the nail protruding beyond the bottom of the dog's pad of his foot.

Accidents do happen, and you may cut the vein at one time or another. Also, there are some dogs whose veins are longer than others. So you should either have your veterinarian's assistant perform the toenail cutting task or your groomer.

If you decide to cut your dog's nails and you do cut a vein, don't panic. If you don't have the clotter "Quik Stop" to place on the bleeding nail, ordinary corn starch or flour will usually do the job.

Be assured, should your dog's nail bleed, it will stop quickly and no harm will come to your dog.

CHURCH CALENDAR

Saturday: 25th nets celebration

Today

THE FIRST UNITED METHODIST Church, 3 Towne Square, Wayne, will host the Ann Arbor District Meeting at 4 p.m. A registration fee of $5 is required, unless you plan to work. Workshops include techniques, posters, publicity, interpreting missions, giving through creative drama, a Bible study of missions — a Biblical and theological perspective and "Women as Peacemakers," a study of women's roles as leaders. The keynote speaker for the event will be Sandy Wilder, who will discuss "A Time for Global Perspective." Punch and coffee will be served before the classes. Further information is available by calling 721-4801.

Thursday

8

The COMMUNITY UNITED METHODIST Church, 11160 Olive Street, Romulus, has designated 7:30 a.m. each Thursday as the hour for the men's breakfast meeting at the Romulus House Restaurant. The Romulus House is located at the corner of Wick and Wayne roads, Romulus.

ST. MICHAEL LUTHERAN Church and school is celebrating the 25th anniversary during the second weekend in October. Features of the celebration will be visits from all three of the former pastors, a Saturday night talent and fashion show, a service of praise and remembrance on Sunday afternoon, followed by a potluck dinner, which will include historical information, pictures and personal memories of the years of the church provided by charter members. St. Michael's is located at 3003 Hannan Road (at Glenwood), Wayne.

Sunday

EMMANUEL SOUTHERN BAPTIST Church of Belleville, 960 E. Huron River Drive, will host revival services from Oct. 11 until 14. Services will begin at 11 a.m. Sunday and at 7 each night. Powerful preaching and uplifting music will highlight every service. All people are welcome to attend. Further information is available by calling 697-0566.

THE WAYNE CHURCH of Christ, 3789 Venoy (one block south of Michigan Ave.), is sponsoring a color film series about the problems faced by everyone. The five-film series features the humor and practical advice of Dr. Paul Faulkner. The third film in the series, "Cut Your Line When It's Tangled," is set for 6 to 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 11, with other films following each Sunday. "Keep Cool, Even When You're Hot" and "Make Your Relationships Right" are other titles in the series. There is no charge for viewing the films. Further information is available by calling 721-1057.

Coming Up

THE ROSARY ALTAR Society of St. John the Baptist Catholic Church of Dearborn Heights is hosting a harvest luncheon party beginning at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 15 in the parish hall, located at Eton and Fellrath.

The WILLOW UNITED METHODIST Church, Willow Road, east of Waltz Road, is sponsoring a chicken dinner with all the trimmings beginning at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 14. The cost is $4.50 for adults, $3 for children 6 to 12, and preschoolers may eat for free.

The FIRST UNITED METHODIST Church, 417 Charles St., Belleville, will serve the annual harvest dinner from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15. The menu features ham with all the trimmings. The cost is $5 for adults, $3 for children 6 to 12 years, and children five and under may eat for free.

In step Area churches join weekend walk

Members of six area churches teamed up last weekend to fight a common enemy — hunger.

Some 75 participants from the Belleville United Presbyterian, Belleville United Methodist, Denton United Methodist, Trinity Episcopal, Romulus United Methodist and St. Anthony's churches made an 11-mile trip from Belleville to Romulus and back to earn pledges for Church World Services. Twenty-five percent of the pledge money is being allocated to three local hunger relief efforts: Romulus Help Center, St. Vincent de Paul and the Belleville Emergency Food Closet.

Donations to the CWS provide nutrition and primary health care, water resources and education and training for underdeveloped countries throughout the world. According to the sponsors of the walk, the price of a coffee and Danish roll in the U.S. would be enough to purchase pencils and two notebooks in Honduras, two tickets to a movie would provide enough money to purchase two and one-half pounds of seed in Zaire and the cost of three tennis balls in the U.S. would provide a hoe for a farmer in Kampuchea.

Pledge totals were not available at press time, but donations to alleviate world hunger will still be accepted by the sponsors of the walk.

New minister will bring music

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The sound of music will return to the Wesleyan Church, located at the intersection of Five Points in Romulus. The new pastor, the Rev. Randy Swink, is making that a promise.

Swink, a plumber by trade, was interviewed by members of the church board on Saturday, May 31. The following day, he preached before his future congregation for the first time.

"The message that day," said Swink, "dealt with a vision and the importance of having Christ in that vision."

Within the month, Swink and his family relocated to Romulus. He and wife, Gayle, have two sons, Bryan, 7, and Brad, 3.

The 31-year-old Pennsylvania native recently graduated with honors from United Wesleyan College in Allentown, Pa. His major included pastoral ministry and sacred music.

"I was a plumber for 10 years. The last three, I had my own business. I enjoyed plumbing, but it became a job. I felt God was training me for something else. Five years ago, I hated to read. But I discovered that if I was going to make it, you have to enjoy reading. Now, if I'm not reading, I miss it. Education is so important," said Swink.

The new pastor has some positive plans for the old church. The congregation was established in 1838, and the present building dates to 1856. Swink proudly points to the old floor boards where, according to a popular legend, runaway slaves were hidden during the days of the underground railroad.

But those were the 1800s. What issue currently tops the new minister's list of priorities? Sunday attendance now is only between 40 and 50 members.

"I expect the church to grow," Swink said. "It was only 10 years ago that attendance topped 100 members."

"Most churches have gone through several changes. Society continues to search for peace and contentment. But they won't find it until they know Christ. The fields of modern science teach us a lot, but they won't work without interacting with teachings from the Bible. I want people to know this is a church that really cares about them," Swink said.

As part of his ministry, Swink would also like to develop a church music program, specifically a choir.

"Maybe the program would spread into the community," said Swink, who was director of his college choir.

In addition, a sound absent from the local church for many years — the church bell — will now be heard at 9:55 each Sunday morning.

Tigers win... just barely

After four frustrating weeks, Belleville has its first football victory of the 1987 campaign.

But, it didn't come easy for the Tigers.

The 10-9 win over visiting Southgate Anderson Friday night came after a truck load of errors and "more frustrations than I want to think about," according to Belleville Coach Dave McCarney.

"But it was a game we were determined to win," McCarney said afterwards. "However, we sure didn't help ourselves. We committed seven fumbles and lost six of them, and you don't win many ball games like that."

"In fact, I feel we are fortunate of being able to pull this one out."

Belleville trailed 9-0 until the final quarter when senior running back J.P. Fallen managed to break the barrier and overcome four earlier turnovers to score from one yard out. Blaine Armstrong booted the extra point. He later came through with a field goal that decided the issue.

But it was heroics by line-backer Vince Sacco that actually provided the Tigers with the momentum and set up the TD. Southgate Anderson, pinned to its own goal line, elected to punt but the ball sailed over the punter's head and Sacco managed to retrieve it on the one. It was all elementary after that.

Sacco and teammate, Brian Hutchinson, a defensive tackle, spearheaded a defense that gave up only 84 yards to Anderson's ballcarriers.

And, it was Armstrong who put the finishing touches on Tigers' first win. He came through with a 15-yard field goal with 4:42 remaining in the game to provide the crucial three points. Armstrong's kick came after quarterback Eric Schubert was inserted into the action and he put together a sustained drive that included a direct hit to tight end Ray Lewis - good for 25-yards - that carried the Tigers to the Anderson five.

However, Anderson dug in and refused to yield the final five and that forced McCarney to call out Anderson for the field goal. It worked.

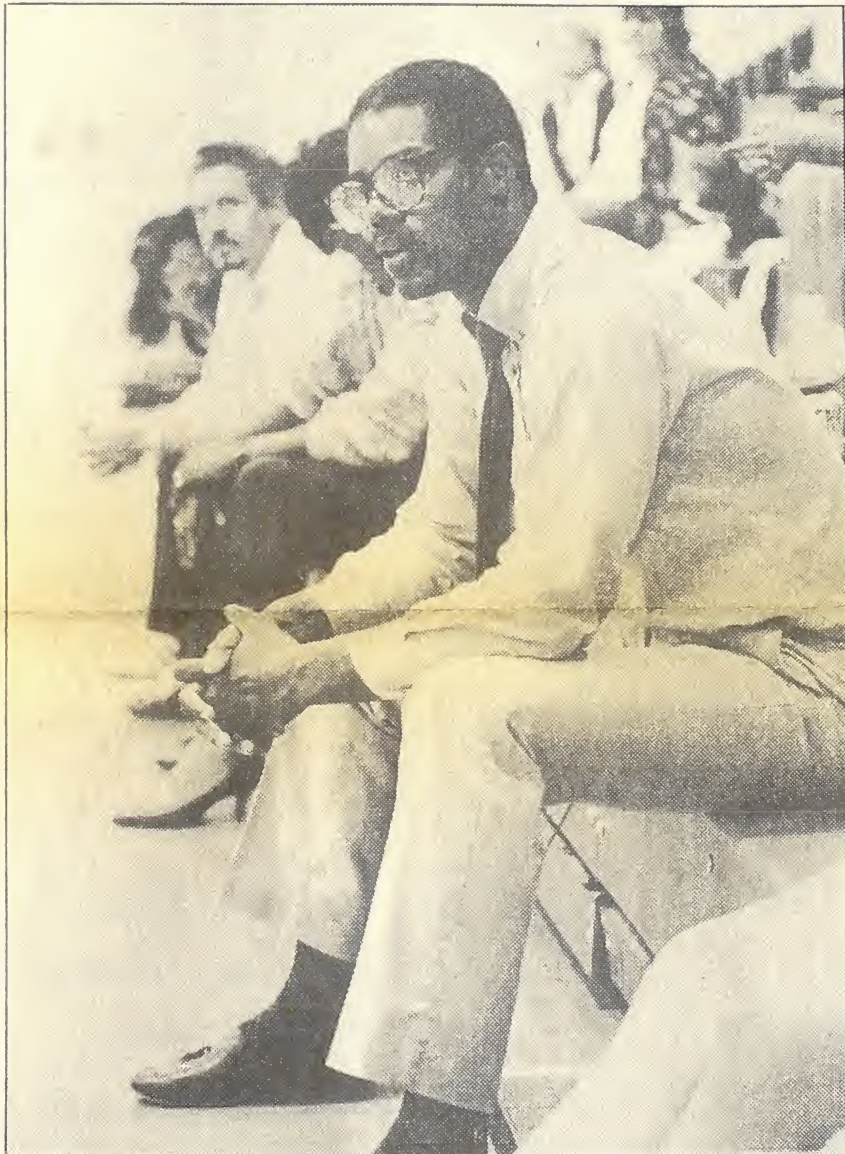

"The nicest thing about this victory is that, despite all of our problems, we displayed the determination to win. We could have folded. It was frustrating, but it still is a 'W'."

Belleville dodges storms to win

Dodging thunderstorms all last week, Belleville High golfers came away with at least one victory in three starts.

Coach Ted Grignon's linksmen edged Southgate Anderson, 180-181, to even up their Wolverine 'A' Conference record at 5-5 after losing to the 'class of the league' - Trenton and Monroe earlier in the week. They have an overall 6-5 record this season.

Craig Atchinson shot a 43 to lead the Tigers to their one-stroke victory over Anderson. Teammates Eric Johnson and Scott Conrad checked in with 44 and 46, respectively, while Daren Thomas's 47 was the next best Belleville score.

"We have had miserable weather all week," said Grignon whose club will join a score of others on Friday at Great Oaks in Temperance Bedford to compete for regional and state-qualifying honors. The top five teams and six individuals qualify for the state finals.

Last year Belleville finished fourth in the field of 25 area teams at the regional. Grignon would settle for that berth, but said he had to be realistic.

"You always hope for the best," he said, "however, you're going to have a lot of talent over there in Temperance. And we have not been very impressive this year."

Trenton whipped the Tigers 165-197 at the Water's Edge Golf Course in Grose Ile last Monday as Scott Schneider carded a 2-over-par 35 to emerge as medalist for the winners. Atchinson and Johnson finished with 48s for the losers while Marc Liskey had a 49 and Conrad finished with a 52.

In the meantime Belleville also couldn't come up with the winning touch against Monroe which stopped the Tigers in the league, 182-191. Monroe's Joe Ainslie set the pace with a 42 at Harbour Club, Belleville's home course. Atchinson again provided the spark for the Tigers with a 43. Conrad turned in with a 46. Liskey and Johnson each had 51s.

Inexperience is costly to Romulus harriers

Inexperience and lack of numbers are taking their toll on Romulus High's cross country team.

Coach Dan Henry and his harriers were no match for Ann Arbor Huron runners who outlasted the Eagles 15-50 in both boys and girls' competition. Romulus has failed to post a victory in three South Central Conference outings this fall.

All five Huron runners crossed the finish line before Romulus's first runner, Tim Gondek, made it to the wire. In was the same case in the girls' race where Lisa McClure managed to lead the Eagles, but she trailed five Huron runners to the finish.

"We are an inexperienced team," said Henry, "and we also don't have numbers out. Even if we did manage to field a decent team, Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ypsilanti have always been among the top 10 contenders in the state, so we have a ways to go before we can catch up to our league rivals."

Romulus discovered just how far last night when they clashed with Pioneer; on Thursday they will run Ypsilanti Lincoln, one of the perennial Class

Robichaud rips Rouge takes 1st

It wasn't the way Coach Bob Yauck visualized it or planned, but the Robichaud coach is in the driver's seat of the Suburban Athletic Conference football title race.

Yauck's Bulldogs shut out defending SAC champ, River Rouge, 12-0, Friday afternoon on Rouge's home field to take over sole possession of first place.

The league-leading Bulldogs have Highland Park to contend with on Saturday at Highland Park.

"Off of the information we have been getting," said Yauck, "this is not one of Highland Park's better teams. They are inexperienced, however, they do have size and they appear to be more physical than we are. Now that we are on top of the league, we can't afford a letdown. This season is far from over."

Robichaud managed to play over penalties - 10 of them - at Rouge to post its fourth successive victory of the campaign. (They lost their season opener 29-20 to Birmingham Country Day, the defending Class C state champ which has strung together five consecutive victories thus far this year.

Tyji Armstrong accounted for both Robichaud touchdowns against the Panthers who managed to shut down the Bulldogs' high-scoring running back Tyrone Wheatley. Wheatley failed to score for the first time this season and was held to 26 yards rushing.

Armstrong took command. He scooped up a dropped punt in the second quarter and returned it 24 yards for the initial Robichaud touchdown. Then, in the third quarter, Armstrong combined with quarterback Eric Thomas on a 22-yard scoring pass with Armstrong leaping high and above a host of players to grab the ball in the end zone.

Garland is named head cage coach

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Saying that it was like a dream come true, Mike Garland returns to the high school where he starred in basketball as a prep to become the head basketball coach.

"To return to my alma mater as head coach," said Garland, a 1972 Belleville High graduate, "is rewarding and challenging. But it also is like a dream come true. Having played here and having grown up here, it is a great thrill to be back."

Garland was named to the all-tournament team after leading the Tigers to the 1971 Western Wayne Holiday Invitational championship. He was also picked All-Area two consecutive years as a member of Coach Tom Niemi's teams. He went on to play for Northern Michigan University where he majored in education.

Garland served as assistant coach to Leon Birdyshaw who resigned last year after posting a 13-6 won-lost record. Garland will inherit three starters off of last year's team, including 6-6 Maurice Brantley; 6-7 Albert Kilaman, and 5-11 Tony Bellinger.

This is Garland's first head coaching position.

Married to Cynthia, the Garlands have three children.

Self-destruct

Inkster hands Highland Park a gift, 17-2

"We beat ourselves." With that terse statement Inkster head football coach Alonzo Glaze explained the Vikings' 17-2 defeat at the hands of previously winless Highland Park. Inkster committed seven fumbles as they self-destructed against their Suburban Athletic Conference rivals Friday night before the home crowd. The loss was especially disappointing because, according to Glaze, "we let our fans down."

"Our fans have stood by us," Glaze went on. "They have stood in the rain and cold and we didn't appreciate it." He went on to say that "this is probably the weakest Highland Park team he has seen in the 11 Highland Park, however, hungry for a victory after four consecutive losses didn't miss the opportunity to cash in on the hapless Vikings inept offense. The Polar Bears cashed in on the turnovers and scored one touchdown in each of the third and fourth quarters to break open a close 3-2 first quarter game. The Vikings managed to pick up an anemic 95 yards total for their rushing game, however, any momentum they had was killed by turnovers - seven of them during the course of the game. years I have served as assistant coach and now head coach. There was no reason for us to walk off the field with a loss." If the Vikings do not want to finish in the cellar of the Suburban Athletic Conference this year they will have to find a way to beat winless Ecorse. Ecorse is 0-5 on the season and will be in town Friday afternoon. But the Red Raiders always seem ready to play their SAC rival. Although bearing the scars and bruises of five games, the Vikings have not suffered any serious injuries.

Regionals next for prep golf teams

Local high school golf teams will be traveling to Temperance Bedford and Giant Oak Golf Course on Friday to compete for regional honors and qualifying berths for the state tournament. "We're in one of the toughest regionals in the state," commented Bill Knight, Romulus High head coach. "We have to contend with the Ann Arbor schools and Ypsilanti which field some of the best teams in the area."

The top five teams and the top six players at each of the regionals will qualify to compete at the state finals. Romulus hopes to qualify its number one player, senior Keith Brothers who has led the Eagles this season. However, Romulus has had more than its share of problems competing in its new home, the South Central Conference. They have failed to win in their first four outings and, after losing a triangular which involved nonconference rivals Westland John Glenn and Garden City, their record has dipped to 3-8 on the season. Brothers shot a 10-over-par 45 at the Garden City Municipal course last Friday as the Eagles finished third in the meet. Glenn came away the winner with 212, three strokes ahead of Garden City. Other Romulus scores included Jeff Korber's 46; Mike Laymon, 48; Jeff Day 50 and Len Barr with 51.

Sacco, besides that key recovery, also accounted for eight tackles and two sacks of the QB, while Hutchinson finished with three sacks of the quarterback, two of them when Anderson was driving and appeared nothing was going to stop them.

Dubon Bellinger also played a major role in this Belleville victory. He blocked the Anderson extra point attempt, and also came up with a defensive gem. With 2:50 left in the game, Anderson still had plenty of time to retaliate. Bellinger came through with a crushing tackle of the quarterback on a fourth and four situation that took the sails from Southgate's assault. The victory left Belleville with a 1-4 overall and a 1-3 Wolverine 'A' Conference record. Belleville will travel to Wayne Friday night to clash with the Zebras who are coming off a 35-6 defeat at the hands of defending conference champs, Fordson. Fordson has an unblemished 5-0 record and is favored to repeat as champ. "I saw the game Saturday," McCarney said, referring to the Fordson-Wayne battle. "And Wayne is an excellent team. They are loaded with speed and have an outstanding quarterback in Mike Heard. We can't afford to commit any turnovers and expect to stay on the same field with them."

THE MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT of Natural Resources this month has announced some new rules for the 1987-88 hunting season. Some of the major changes made regard mandatory hunter education, the licensing of hunters who hunt with dogs and shining. Shining, or the use of artificial lights for locating wildlife, will not be permitted this year during the entire month of November. From Dec. 1, 1987 through Oct. 31, 1988, shining is banned from 11 p.m. until 6 a.m. Beginning Jan. 1, 1988, all hunters born after Jan. 1, 1960, will be required to complete an approved hunter education class and produce proof of completion or produce a previous hunting license in order to purchase a license for the 1988-89 hunting season. Currently, only those between the ages of 12 and 16 are required to complete a hunting class. Beginning immediately, all hunters must have a valid Michigan hunting license to participate in any way in pursuing a game animal with dogs during the open season for hunting that animal with dogs. In the past, only the person shooting the animal was required to have a license. This rule does not apply to people participating in field trials. There are several other important changes this year. Hunters should consult their 1987-88 hunting and trapping guides for more specific details.

WE'VE BEEN HEARING a lot about Inkster resident Maurice Smith, formerly of Robichaud High School, who is now a senior free safety for the Fighting Leathernecks of Western Illinois University in Macomb. In a losing effort against Fresno State (20-17) on Sept. 12, Smith was cited for his defensive efforts which included a pass interception, four solo tackles and eight assists. The following week Smith, 6 foot, 3 inches, 190-pounds, returned a punt 28 yards for the offense and was credited with nine tackles and another interception in a 42-12 rout of Indiana State. His punt return yardage puts him among the national leaders, with a 16 yards per return average.

THE MICHIGAN HIGH SCHOOL Athletic Association is working in cooperation with the Institute for the Study of Youth Sports at Michigan State University to develop an in-service program to help train non-teachers who are leading school athletic teams. Approximately 25 percent of interscholastic coaches in Michigan have never completed a teacher's certification program, which diminishes the idea of the athletic field as an extension of the classroom learning experience, according to program sponsors. A three-level program for coaches has been developed by the Institute for the Study of Youth Sports that will address the problems and concerns stemming from the increasing numbers of non-faculty coaches. This program will be presented at five locations throughout the state during the 1987-88 school year. Included in the workshops are a variety of topics, including the medical and legal aspects of sports, modern training and conditioning techniques, principles of effective instruction, sports skills and the rules and procedures of the MHSAA. There is a $50 fee for the workshop, which includes materials. For information regarding the dates and locations of the workshops, contact Vern Seefeldt, Room 213 IM Sports-Circle, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich. 48224. Or call (517) 353-6689.

OFFICIATING CLASSES ARE being offered state wide for a variety of sports. In the area, the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor is the site of classes in football, basketball, baseball, softball, volleyball and soccer; Milan Community Education Department in Milan offers football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, wrestling, hockey, softball and volleyball; and Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti offers basketball, softball and volleyball. In all of the classes, National Federation rules are studied, and upon successful completion of the course, students can become registered officials with the Michigan High School Athletic Association. Further information regarding these classes is available by calling (517) 332-5046 or by contacting the facility which offers the class.

Romulus is no match for Ypsilanti, falls 28-7

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

When opportunity knocks, you're supposed to answer.

But Romulus, putting together two excellent scoring drives, came up empty handed and on the short end of a 28-7 decision against Ypsilanti Friday.

The Eagles couldn't stop junior tailback Duane Powell who amassed 239-yards rushing and scored two touchdowns on runs of three and two yards, respectively.

The loss dipped Romulus's overall record to 1-4 on the season.

"Ypsilanti has an excellent team," said Romulus Coach Norb Glover. "But we had a couple of excellent drives going for us and came up empty handed. If we had cashed in on them, the game would have been closer than it was."

Ypsilanti scored 7-points in each of the four quarters, while Romulus averted the shutout in the last frame when defensive tackle Maurice Bridges managed to pounce on a loose ball at the Braves' eight-yard line. Quarterback Dave Blandford managed to move the ball to the three-yard line where, on the third play of the series, he handed the ball to running back Arol Trinity who dashed over for the touchdown.

Blandford then kicked the extra point.

In the first period, in their first series, the Eagles missed an opportunity to score when their tailback, Derrick Anderson, broke a 40-yarder in a seven-play sequence that eventually ended on the Ypsi 10. The Braves managed to hold. Then, in the third quarter, Blandford marched his troops to the 14-yard line where again the Eagles were denied.

Anderson finished with the largest hunk of the Eagles' 197-yards rushing. He contributed 114 yards on 14 carries. But Romulus' aerial assault was almost nonexistent as Blandford managed to connect on only two of eight for 43 yards.

"We moved extremely well off of the guards," Glover noted. "Overall I am pleased with the team effort, and I believe playing the tough competition is going to help us going down the stretch."

Eddie Miller established himself as one of the finer defensive tackles in the business. The 6-2, 255-pound sophomore made sure the Braves wouldn't challenge his side of the line by coming up with a handful of crunching tackles. Teammate Ricky Champagne, a senior linebacker, and defensive end, Robert Hoth, also turned in exceptional games against the Braves.

Romulus hopes to rebound at the expense of Saginaw Nouvell this week. The Eagles travel to Saginaw Friday night for a 7:30 p.m. engagement.

"They are a solid football team," said Glover about his Friday night opponent, "and I am looking for another hard-hitting game."

Rains wash away victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although they have come close, Belleville's first year tennis team went into the Wolverine 'A' Conference championships last night seeking their first team victory.

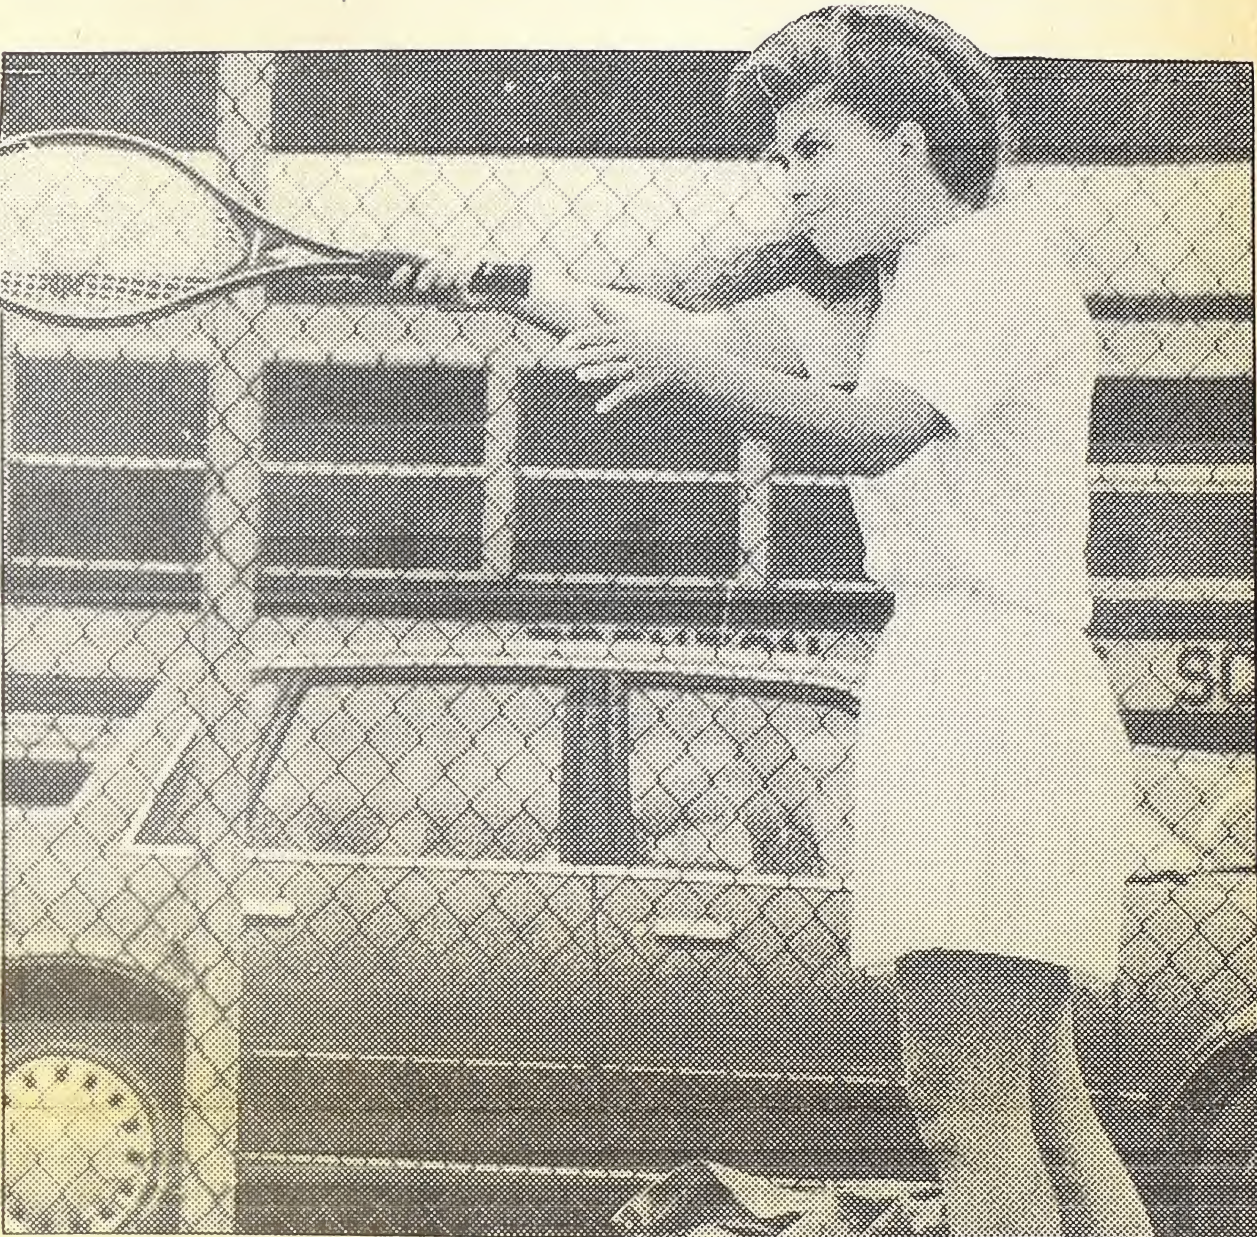

Coach Susan McCarney's Tigers were on the edge of claiming their inaugural victory last week when torrential rains wiped out their matches with Lincoln Park. The Tigers also were ahead against Wyandotte on Thursday when inclement weather forced the cancellation of the meet.

"We will resume competition with Lincoln Park and Wyandotte with the scores as they stood when the rain came," McCarney noted. "Our kids have shown a marked improvement in the little time they have played."

Belleville is fielding its first team in over 40 years.

McCarney had no predictions about the outcome of the championships, saying only that "the competition would be a great experience for our team members."

In the abbreviated matches against Lincoln Park, Belleville's number one singles, Keely Luman held a 6-0 and 6-3 edge over Melanie Snoes when the rains came; number two Belleville singles, Brittany Hall had Sue Holton on the run, 6-0, 1-0; while number 3 singles, Lena Widener was winning 3-0 over Lincoln Parker, Debbie Conley.

In the number four singles, Kristy Van Allen, and Minnie Robertson were in a heated battle with Allen having a slim 4-3 edge.

Belleville's Diane Wisniewski and Jackie Dawson were involved in close matches with Mariane Gonwicha and Janie Stoddard; the Tigers' number two doubles, Angela Radisodich and Susan Karolyi were en route to a 6-0 victory over Debbie Brown and Linda Mitchell. The Parkers had forfeited the number three doubles

Huron takes aim at Monroe

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After two superlative defensive gems, New Boston Huron will test its grid machine against state-ranked and undefeated Monroe Catholic Central Friday night.

Coach Tom LaBeau's Chiefs, 6-0 winners Friday night against Flat Rock, have not been scored upon in their last eight quarters.

"They (Monroe CC) have one of the strongest defenses I have seen in years. In fact, they held Jefferson to 17 yards rushing and Jefferson's offense is considered outstanding," said LaBeau as he prepares for the showdown.

LaBeau stressed that his team "will need to show some consistency on offense, and play a near perfect game to come away with a victory."

For three quarters Huron and Flat Rock were locked in a scoreless deadlock. It was quarterback Paul Hill's 10-yard touchdown run with 1:22 left on the clock that broke the knot in the Chiefs' favor.

And Huron can thank the Flat Rock center for setting up the touchdown. A poor snap from the center in a punting situation put the ball on the Rocks' 15 where two plays later Hill managed to find the crease and go in.

The game was played between the 30-yard lines as neither of the offenses managed to penetrate.

Lenny Ziegler played a starring role on defense and led the Chiefs on offense as he piled up 64 yards in 17 attempts. Hill had 62 yards rushing on 14 tries while running back Jon Tackett finished with 40 on eight attempts. Ziegler, who was all over the field, managed 20 tackles, several in key situations.

"It was a hard fought game and the defense was outstanding on both sides," LaBeau said. "It came down to where we got one big break and managed to capitalize on it."

"We have to have balanced scoring, more than one player contributing if we want to win," Bayes pointed out. "We haven't been consistent on offense and that's one of our major problems."

Close all the way, Romulus took an 8-6 lead after the first period and remained ahead 16-10 after two periods. Both teams managed to put 11 points on the scoreboard in the third period but the Eagles outscored their hosts 14-12 in the finale.

Romulus also received nine points from Reenie McNeil, while Charlotte Jackson chipped in with seven and Rachel Hawk added four. Malaika Williams finished with six.

Tanya Wilson finished with the game high 13 points for the Tigers and Vandecar had seven. Murphy and Charzka split three points.

Romulus was no match for Ann Arbor Huron which handed the Eagles their second conference setback, 55-23. Huron broke it open in the last period when they outscored the Eagles 22-10. Close up to then, Huron led by two after the first eight minutes 7-5, increased the advantage to 22-9 at intermission, then held a 33-13 advantage heading into the fourth period.

Berlin again had an excellent evening as she sank 15 points and managed to haul down 13 rebounds. Huron got 19 points from guard Judy Saxton.

Bayes was frustrated over his club's performance.

"We quit, that's what we did," he said. "We didn't get off to a good start, but we also quit. I am definitely not satisfied at the way we played. I know we can play better."

Bayes said that one of the problems his team is having is at the guard spots. "If our guards get better, we should have a decent season," he said.

Romulus has a tough road to cover this week as he hosts an excellent Ida team on Tuesday then takes on Ann Arbor Pioneer on Thursday.

Robichaud

in this one," said Yauck. "We are looking for great things from him."

Yauck also commended the overall performance of his defense. Junior linebacker Carl Brown, however, was singled out for his exemplary efforts as he counted 13 tackles - most of them first hits on Panther ball carriers.

"When you figure that we have given up only one touchdown after losing that first game, it surely speaks highly of our defense," Yauck said.

Although unrated, Robichaud could find his way into the state play offs by winning their next four games. After their encounter with Highland Park on Saturday, the Bulldogs will meet on successive Fridays: Willow Run, Inkster and Muskegon Heights.

Robichaud quarterback Eric Thomas (8) hands off to runningback Tyrone Wheatley. The combination has produced most of the yardage for the Bulldogs this year, and has given them a perfect 3-0 record in the conference. ANP photo by Mike Cardew/staff photographer

300-night strikes at Westland Bowl

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

The 300 games were popping up as fast as Tigers fans in October this week at Westland Bowl, 5940 N. Wayne Road, Westland. Dave Thomas, Carl Galichi and George Sinerin each bowled 300 games Wednesday night.

Other top bowlers included Mike Lelaniowski (758), Carol Sotala (269) and Linda Sylvester (601).

Fall is perfect time to be on the greens

Have you noticed it lately? The snap in the air, the earlier sunsets and colorful leaves.

While many are cleaning grills and putting boats away for the season, there is no reason to put those golf clubs in the closet yet. This is truly the finest time to play for the following reasons:

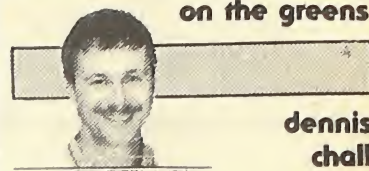

- Golf courses are generally in beautiful condition due to peak growing conditions (warm days, cool nights);
- Many golf leagues have ended providing more availability for open play. (Many courses offer reduced fall rates, including mine); and
- Mosquitoes and other unwelcome pests are not as prevalent. (A few weeks ago I thought I saw a mosquito with a golf cap on).

Here are some tips for enjoyable fall golf.

• Put a windbreaker and knit cap in your bag if the conditions change. You will stay comfortable and play better!!

• Use some of the high-visibility colored balls for certain leave conditions and twilight play - be sure to watch your shot until it stops. Then mark it like the crosshairs on a scope with neighboring trees, etc. Try it - you will lose less balls. Playing partners should watch each other's shots.

on the greens

dennis chall

• Select one extra club in cool conditions (Below 70 degrees) since the ball compresses less. For optimum results you may want to try a two-piece ball as opposed to a three-piece wound ball. The two-piece ball is less affected by temperature change.

• Greens may be faster this time of year in periods of low rain. Notice the direction of the cut. Dark appearance is slower since grass is leaning away from the hole. Light shiny grass is cut toward the hole and is faster.

• Now is an excellent time to see your golf professional for lessons. Appointments are more available and many find more time to practice now than in the summer.

See you on the links. Dennis Chall is the head professional at Fellows Creek Golf Club in Canton Township and is the head golf coach at Wayne Memorial High School. Future columns will deal with club repair and maintenance, instruction tips, equipment testing and new equipment.

Judiciary procedure gets shaken down to its very foundation when Robin Weathers, (Judd Nelson) a recent law school graduate, takes on a case. His unorthodox tactics and "anything goes" approach to criminal defense make him into a media figure to rank up there with the stars. Convinced of the innocence of a client, he'll stop at nothing to obtain an acquittal. But what if new evidence comes to light, showing that a defendant is indeed guilty of the most vicious sort of cold-blooded murder?

Law Auto rides on generation of success

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Where do people go when looking for a used car?

"Anyone looking to buy a used car or sell a used car should go to Wayne," said Vince Law Jr., co-owner of Law Auto Sales.

"There must be 25 used car dealerships on Michigan Avenue between Merriman Road and I-275."

Law, who operates the dealership with his brother Jim and father, Vince Sr., welcomes the competition.

"We moved to Wayne in March of 1985, and we are very happy we did," said Law, who is opening another location on Michigan Avenue.

"When we started looking to expand, we never thought about leaving this community. It never crossed our minds to leave because it's such a strong used-car area. We like the competition that is here," Law said.

"We have been extremely happy with the way Wayne officials have treated us and how nice the people of Wayne are."

Vince Sr., who is still active in the dealership, started working in the business with his father in 1935. The dealership location has changed several times.

"We were on Livernois and Grand River for a long time before we moved to Six Mile and Outer Drive," said Vince. "We then moved to Wayne."

The current expansion to a second location on Michigan Avenue (one mile west of Wayne Road) was a result of the growth and success of the business, Law said.

"The business is doing fantastic," said

Vince Sr. "We were in some cramped quarters, and we simply ran out of room and needed another location."

The original lot, located at 32115 Michigan Ave., displays about 50 to 60 cars. The newly added lot will allow 40 more used cars to be displayed at the dealership.

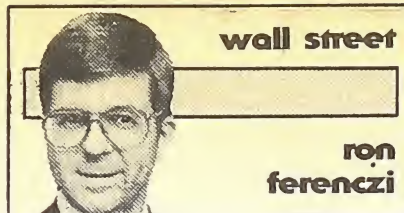

"This is such a good area because someone can spend one day in this town and look at 2,000 different cars," said Vince. "And if they were selling a car, they could get 20 different prices in a day. It's the new Livernois of Detroit, where everyone goes for a used car."

Market confusion won't spur a decline

The mass of financial data that is currently available can be constructed to support any economic analysis. However, few analysts can make an argument for any strong decline.

Current economic data lends the strongest support to a "do little or nothing attitude," until future data is available. The Fed has reported new factory orders fell in August, which could lead to inventory increases. This seems unlikely, as the money multiplier seems to indicate a slight increase in consumer spending. This confusion is causing caution.

For this week, interest rates will ease and give price relief to interest-sensitive issues. Gold and silver will be mixed-to-lower.

The short-term traders will be reluctant to close out positions. This will add stability and upward price pressure to large capitalized issues. Intermediate- and long-term traders are also willing holders with the prospects of an increasing market.

For this week, the market will be stronger. Increased strength will come from a decline in selling enthusiasm. This firming in market activity will move prices higher. Current economic data will also allow interest rates to soften, giving relief to interest-sensitive issues. The market will build on this lack of selling enthusiasm and will continue to move higher during this session.

NOTE: Factory orders fell 1.7 percent in August, the first drop since January, construction spending rose 1.6 percent, GE/Kidder Peabody in discussions to tie-up with Nomura Securities of Japan, index of leading indicators rose .6 percent in August for the seventh consecutive month.

SIERRA SLE CLUB COUPE

SIERRA: FULL-SIZE, SUPERBLY DONE.

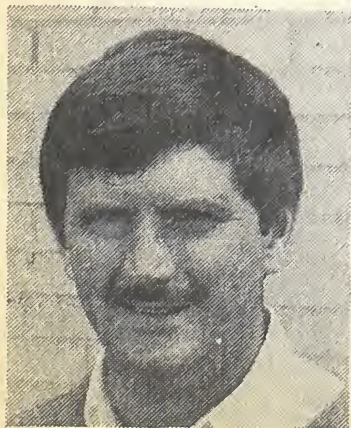

We want you to see what goes into making Sierra, the ultimate full-size pickup from GMC Truck. Some of the contributions to its status include:

- Rear-wheel anti-lock brake system, operates in two-wheel drive only on 4 X 4 model
- Electronic fuel injection, standard
- Standard 4.3-liter Vortec V-6 (except on C/K 3500), or available V-8 engines
- Superbly comfortable and attractive cab interior
- Insta-Trac standard on four-wheel-drive models
- Full-size bed capable of carrying 4 X 8 plywood flat
- Advanced aerodynamics, for a superbly quiet ride
- Torsion-bar front suspension, on four-wheel drive
- Backed by GM's 6/60 Quality Commitment Plan. See your dealer for the terms and conditions of this powertrain warranty.

There's also much more to consider. Come test-drive a new Sierra today. It's a terrific way to exceed your own expectations about pickup trucks.

THIS IS THE EASY PART

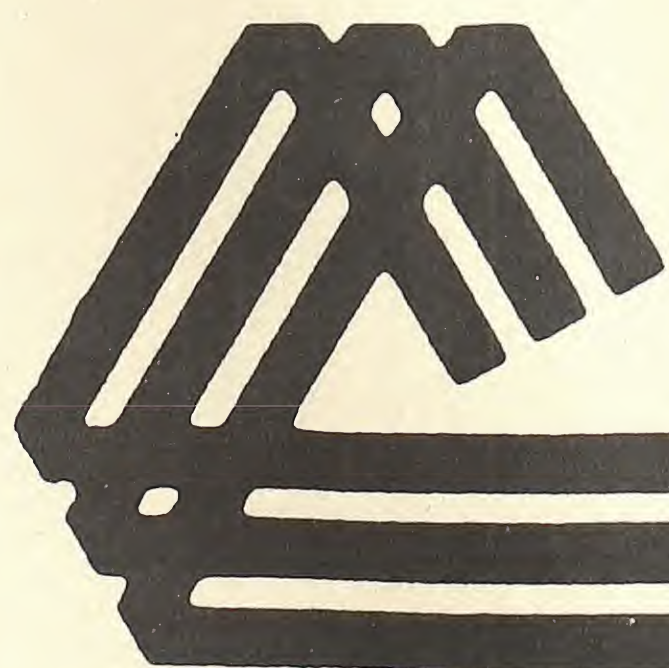

Threading a laser beam through the eye of a needle is a snap compared to the intricate repair a skilled surgeon can accomplish with a laser on the delicate structures of the eye.

We know. With our office eye laser we can accomplish in seconds, painlessly, what used to take hours.

Laser technology. Convenient in-office surgical suite. The latest in cataract surgery techniques. Extraordinarily experienced specialists. We're doing all we can to make it easy for you to preserve your precious gift of sight.

Don't let your vision fade when there is so much which can be done. Please, call us today.
